PENNOCK AND SHERDEL ON MOUND AS YANKEES AND CARDINALS CLASH

St. Louis Nationals, Denied Pennant Through 38 Years of Grim Adversity, Enter First Game of World Series and Portals of Sudden Riches.

FANS THRONG STADIUM DESPITE THREATENING AND SOMBRE CLOUDS

With Four Games Scheduled in Metropolis and Three in Mound City, Monetary Gain to Rival Clubs and Players Promises to Break All Records.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The man who discovered the Comstock lode probably spent countless nights shivering in [illegible] famished for want of an extra blanket and a [illegible] bread, but he found the golden lode, and all was well.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, the St. Louis Cardinals, denied a pennant through 38 years of grim adversity, were to enter the first game of the 1926 world series with the New York Yankees and no wanderer of the waste land ever stumbled upon a fairy cave with eyes of greater wonder and a heart more thoroughly gladdened.

After years of denial, self-imposed and otherwise, they suddenly found themselves on the threshhold of the finest honor within the gift of the great god, baseball, and of sudden riches beyond the dreams of every day avarice.

In spite of threatening, sombre clouds and a dank, oppressive atmosphere, a crowd of nearly 63,000 persons sat in at the death.

Sun Emerges From Cloud.

With four games scheduled here and three in St. Louis the monetary gain to the rival clubs and players promised to break all world series records.

In brief the Cardinals and the Yankees, too, had stumbled upon the golden lode and even an unfavorable day could not deny them their due.

As a matter of fact the day became more favorable as it progressed and, at 11:45, the sun emerged from a cloud bank for the first time and the early addicts, hundreds of whom had preserved a "death watch" at the gates throughout the night, burst out in glad glee, as though they were witnessing the coming of the millennium.

Wether it was a favorable sign or not, the Yanks appearance was timed almost simultaneously with that of the sun and the boys seemed to like that, too. Prior to this momentous event, an infallible harbinger of their arrival was manifested.

Betting Near Even Money.

The old story of the engineer's dog who came loping down the tracks as a tip off to the arrival of the noon train was re-enacted here.

This time, however, it was the groundkeeper's dog. His was the first sign of life within a playing enclosure that soon was to sparkle with drama in the making.

The Yanks, being the home team, were generously received but nobody went maudlin. For one thing, Cardinal camp followers were there by the thousands, rushed to the scene by the crack trains from the middle west, and no true St. Louisan ever became unduly impressed by anything from New York.

For another, the magic of that long deferred Cardinal triumph in the National league had weaved its spell over the fans of the entire nation and there was little doubt that St. Louis was a sentimental favorite.

From a professional standpoint, they had been quoted for a week on the short end of odds at six to five but late arrivals from the middle west were likely to say it with greenbacks that will send the price to even money.

Ruth Versus Hornsby.

The incident of Rogers Hornsby, greatest natural hitter of all time and his victory in the first season of his managerial experience, also stirred the popular fancy and, when his mother died two days ago in far off Texas, natural regard turned to downright sympathy and affection.

The chances seemed good that Hornsby would draw a greater ovation from the more or less a neutral crowd, Babe Ruth notwithstanding. The Ruth versus Hornsby duel in fact was to be one of the big moments of the series and Babe served due notice on his great rival by rushing to the plate to be the first Yankee in the batting cage.

Crack Trains Carry Rooters

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Western baseball fans, already swarming over the town by thousands for the first game of the world series, were to have their ranks considerably augmented by the arrival of several crack trains over the New York Central and Pennsylvania lines this morning. Four sections of the Twentieth Century, mostly filled with addicts, were to arrive at 9:40 o'clock. The Southwestern limited, headed here from St. Louis via Cincinnati, was due at 10 o'clock, and the Hudson River limited, also from Cincinnati, was due about the same time.

HOW TWO TEAMS LINE UP TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The probable line-up for the opening game of the world series this afternoon was as follows:

Cardinals:—Douthit, cf.; Southworth, rf.; Hornsby, 2b.; Bottomley, 1b.; L. Bell, 3b.; Hafey, lf.; O'Farrell, c.; Thevenow, ss.; Sherdel, p.

Umpires: Dineen, American league, at plate; O'Day, National league, at first base; Hildebrand, American league, at second base; Klem, National league, at third base.

Time of Game:—1:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard time).

NEW YANK FAN FIRST IN LINE FOR PLACE IN YANK STADIUM

Washington Colored Lad Will See Another Series.

TWO NAP IN CAR

Light Rain Forces Many to Desert Posts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Albert Aitken, of New York City, headed the line of fans waiting to buy tickets at the Yankee stadium this morning. Wrapped in an overcoat and carrying a large box of sandwiches, he arrived at 7 o'clock last evening.

Two hours later Aitken was joined by Nick Pitro and George Sulay, of Passaic, N. J. The fifth arrival was John Green, colored, Washington, D. C., who declared he never missed a world's series.

Andrew Katchmeere and Albert Kusma, Yankee rooters from Swoyersville, Pa., arrived at 10 p. m., in their closed car and slept in it, with others rooters parking on the running board.

By midnight 20 were in line as the night wore on the line lengthened rapidly. At 10 o'clock 38,000 unreserved seats were placed on sale.

Sell-Out Certain.

By 8 o'clock in the morning, the throng at the bleacher gates had swollen to several thousands, sleepy-eyed but vigilant. They sat huddled on soap boxes or stood in discomfort. The morning was cold and the threat of further rain was in the air but the fans were determined and stuck to their posts.

Their numbers might have been greater had it not been for a light rain that fell for 10 minutes at 5:30 o'clock, just after the first streaks of daylight had paled into morning. The rain prompted many of the less hardy to desert their posts. When the rain ceased, many returned to the lines and those who didn't had their places quickly taken by newcomers.

Barring a continuance of the threatening weather, it seemed inevitable that the park would be sold out well before game time at 1:30 o'clock.

$5,000,000 BET TOTAL EXPECTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—With $1,000,000 already wagered and the possibility of $4,000,000 additional being bet in the event that the issue becomes close, the 1926 world series will go down into history as the biggest speculative contest of the post-season classic in the opinion expressed today by betting commissioners. One of these alone claimed he had handled $100,000 in bets today and this figure was trebled by a Wall street firm.

The Yankees had been steady favorites, at odds of 6 to 5 but the arrival of many fans today from St. Louis and other points in the middle west was expected to drive the quotations down to even money and take your choice.

MILL WORKER DIES OF BURNS IN EXPLOSION

Another Man Taken to Rochester General Hospital.

OIL STOVE BLAST

Coroner Harry McCarter Investigates Midland Accident.

Dr. Harry McCarter, Beaver Falls, Beaver county coroner, today returned a verdict of "death by burns, sustained in oil stove explosion," in the case of Felice Granita, 37, Midland mill worker, who died in the Rochester General hospital.

Vincenzo Chirumbolo, 26, 1105 Commerce street, Wellsville, who was also burned, is a patient in the hospital, but it is believed he will recover.

Both men were in bed in a residence at 363 Midland avenue when the explosion occurred. They were attended by Dr. J. A. Helfrich and later taken to the hospital. Granita was burned about the face, neck and body, but Chirumbolo's burns were less serious.

Body of the victim has been removed to the Dennis mortuary, Midland. Funeral services will be conducted in the Presentation church, Midland, at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning. Burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery at Beaver.

The commission found Corbett guilty of disrespect to his superiors, possession of liquor and speeding.

500 KLANSMEN ARE AMBUSHED AND SPRAYED WITH BULLETS

TOWN IN FRENZY

Assailants, Numbering 150, Escape Before Police Arrive.

GROTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Five hundred Klansmen were ambushed and sprayed with shotgun and rifle bullets early today as they fled from a field here where a meeting had just concluded.

The ambuscade was planned in a strategic manner, with roads blockaded by felled trees, delaying the fleeing Klansmen so that their automobiles were riddled with shot.

In spite of the fact that nearly every machine was punctured with bullets, tires pierced and windshields shattered, not a man was hit so far as the police could learn.

The shooting threw the whole town into a frenzy. Homes were barricaded and tenants threw themselves on the floor to be safe from flying missiles.

It was estimated that 150 men were in the ambushing party and they all escaped before the arrival of the police.

CARGO IN FLAMES

Navy Yard Firemen Expected to Save Freighter.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 2.—With two heavy streams of water pouring on her burning cargo, the freighter New Britain, was in no danger of being destroyed by fire two hours after she had made port here this morning.

Navy yard fire fighters who met the flaming ship when she steamed into port, reported that the fire was under control and probably will be extinguished by afternoon.

Much praise was given the captain and the crew of 39 who stayed with the burning ship as she sped 300 miles to port and fought fire the entire distance.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 2. — The freighter New Britain, with fire in her hold since Thursday night, steamed into the port at Charleston, S. C., at 6:30 o'clock this morning where naval fire fighting trucks were waiting to extinguish her blaze, according to a wireless message received here from the coast guard cutter Seneca which accompanied her on the race for port.

CITY GIVES $200

Field Representative Says Money is Needed at Once.

With the need urgent, the American Red Cross, through Field Representative Theo E. Bock, of Washington, D. C., who has just completed a survey of the storm-swept sections of Columbiana county, and East Liverpool chapter officers today appealed for $700 more to meet needs of sufferers from the Sept. 23 tornado.

Other towns contribute.

Approximately $1,700 of a required $2,400 fund has been raised. Of this sum, East Liverpool has contributed a little more than $200, while $1,500 has been given by other towns.

Lisbon and the county chapter of the Red Cross have raised $1,100; Salineville and Wellsville, $100 each, while about $140 has been contributed by motorists and others who have visited the scenes of havoc.

The need for aid in Stop 47 district, seven miles north of here, where the tornado killed one child, injured four other persons and exacted thousands of dollars' property damage, is urgent. Much damage also resulted near Summitville and Millport and in the rural districts.

Money Needed at Once.

"I congratulate the East Liverpool Red Cross chapter, Mrs. Sarah Osterman, chairman; J. W. Moore, secretary, and W. E. Dunlap, treasurer, and Charles Costello and others at Lisbon upon the excellent manner in which relief funds have been raised," said Field Representative Bock. "The committee needs about $700 more, and East Liverpool residents are requested to raise $300 more by next Monday evening. The money is needed at once."

The relief funds will be expended for medical and hospital expenses and in purchasing furniture for persons whose homes were destroyed.

RUTH AND HORNSBY PROVE AS HARD TO SEE AS COOLIDGE AND CAESAR, SAYS GIRL WRITER AT SERIES

By Katharine Brush.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—When I say that it has taken me all this day long to see two people in the city of New York it sounds as though one person must have been at the Battery and the other in the Bronx and as though I must have tried to walk to save taxi fare or something. As a matter of fact it took me all day long to see these two people because—well, look who they are:—Mr. Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, and Mr. Babe Ruth of the Yanks.

If they had been Coolidge and Caesar, it couldn't have been much harder to see them. For today, of course, Mr. Hornsby and Mr. Ruth are the gentlemen of the hour, and some six million people had the same bright little idea about seeing them that I had.

But only a paltry few thousands of us made the grade. And under the circumstances those of us who did may perhaps be pardoned if we brag about it a little.

You will be spared the harrowing details. Journalistic ettiquette forbids my usurping space on the first page to complain about the earliness of the hour at which I arose to hunt my victims, and the utter futility of having arisen at such an hour (for it developed that the victims were busy rehearsing at the Yankee stadium and had no time for women, not even newspaper ones). Suffice it to say that it was 3 o'clock in the afternoon before I finally glimpsed Mr. Ruth—glimpsed is the word—and twenty minutes to six in the evening before my hand was shaken by the hard, strong, hand of Mr. Hornsby. I remember the hour and the moment well. My hand has not been the same since. My favorite hand, too.

I saw the great Bambino on Forty-Second street, which heaven knows is no place for an interview. He was wearing a cap and a blue suit and a broad grin trimmed with dimples, and at the moment when my eye first lit upon him he was busily engaged in trying to turn his enormous automobile around in the middle of a swarm of taxis and trolley cars. He did it, too. But that was only because the taxi-drivers and the trolley conductors recognized him, and thought perhaps on a day like this they might as well humor him.

The privacy enjoyed by Mr. Ruth in the city of Manhattan is simply wonderful. I didn't have time to count the customers who lined up to watch him get out of his car, but I wish I had a German mark, for every man, woman and child and the mob that surrounded him as he crossed the pavement—a crowd that would have gladdened the heart of Mr. Tex Richard, who likes mobs probably better than any man living.

A visitor from Mars, unfamiliar with the hero-worshipping proclivities of the American public and plumped suddenly down into the midst of this scene would have demanded, bewilderedly, "what's it all about," and there would have been nothing to answer at all except that a young man skillful at causing a small ball and a yellow stick to make connections was negotiating a cement sidewalk. O tempore! O morses!

Nine word said to Mr. Ruth. They were: "How many home runs are you going to make?" Mr. Ruth said two words in reply. They were: "Search me." That was the interview.

The eyes that follow the Babe where ever he goes are merry ones. But the eyes that watch Rogers Hornsby are grave and shadowed with sympathy. The story of the valiant little Texan mother who tried to live until after her son's big job was done—and who failed — has touched the hearts of the world. Even the supposedly hard heart of the glittering world of New York. People whom Hornsby doesn't even know stop him to shake his hand and mumble condolences. And that is not so they can tell their friends they shook hands with Hornsby; it is "because they are genuinely sorry for him." He is a rather tragic figure, this stocky, clean cut manager of the Cardinals, living as he is at once the greatest and the saddest days of his life.

I saw him in the lobby of the Alamac hotel, where the St. Louis team and 13 of the players—think how unsuperstitious they must be to stand for that—are quartered during the games here. My talk with him was necessarily almost as brief as my talk with Ruth, for he was surrounded by newspaper men and trying to eat dinner to boot. But it was long enough for him to tell me that he knew—not thought, but knew—the Cards would win. And somehow the quiet conviction in the words made them seem a true prophecy.

Dr. Harry McCarter, Beaver Falls, Beaver county coroner, today returned a verdict of "death by burns, sustained in oil stove explosion," in the case of Felice Granita, 37, Midland mill worker, who died in the Rochester General hospital.

Vincenzo Chirumbolo, 26, 1105 Commerce street, Wellsville, who was also burned, is a patient in the hospital, but it is believed he will recover.

Both men were in bed in a residence at 363 Midland avenue when the explosion occurred. They were attended by Dr. J. A. Helfrich and later taken to the hospital. Granita was burned about the face, neck and body, but Chirumbolo's burns were less serious.

Body of the victim has been removed to the Dennis mortuary, Midland. Funeral services will be conducted in the Presentation church, Midland, at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning. Burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery at Beaver.

500 KLANSMEN ARE AMBUSHED AND SPRAYED WITH BULLETS

TOWN IN FRENZY

Assailants, Numbering 150, Escape Before Police Arrive.

GROTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Five hundred Klansmen were ambushed and sprayed with shotgun and rifle bullets early today as they fled from a field here where a meeting had just concluded.

The ambuscade was planned in a strategic manner, with roads blockaded by felled trees, delaying the fleeing Klansmen so that their automobiles were riddled [illegible] shot.

In spite of the fact that nearly every machine was punctured with bullets, tires pierced and windshields shattered, not a man was hit so far as the police could learn.

The shooting threw the whole town into a frenzy. Homes were barricaded and tenants threw themselves on the floor to be safe from flying missiles.

It was estimated that 150 men were in the ambushing party and they all escaped before the arrival of the police.

CARGO IN FLAMES

Navy Yard Firemen Expected to Save Freighter.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 2.—With two heavy streams of water pouring on her burning cargo, the freighter New Britain, was in no danger of being destroyed by fire two hours after she had made port here this morning.

Navy yard fire fighters who met the flaming ship when she steamed into port, reported that the fire was under control and probably will be extinguished by afternoon.

Much praise was given the captain and the crew of 39 who stayed with the burning ship as she sped 300 miles to port and fought fire the entire distance.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 2. — The freighter New Britain, with fire in her hold since Thursday night, steamed into the port at Charleston, S. C., at 6:30 o'clock this morning where naval fire fighting trucks were waiting to extinguish her blaze, according to a wireless message received here from the coast guard cutter Seneca which accompanied her on the race for port.

ASKS $300 MORE HERE IN ORDER TO PAY BILLS OF SUFFERERS

About $1,700 Raised in Various Cities of County.

CITY GIVES $200

Field Representative Says Money is Needed at Once.

With the need urgent, the American Red Cross, through Field Representative Theo E. Bock, of Washington, D. C., who has just completed a survey of the storm-swept sections of Columbiana county, and East Liverpool chapter officers today appealed for $700 more to meet needs of sufferers from the Sept. 23 tornado.

Other towns contribute.

Approximately $1,700 of a required $2,400 fund has been raised. Of this sum, East Liverpool has contributed a little more than $200, while $1,500 has been given by other towns.

Lisbon and the county chapter of the Red Cross have raised $1,100; Salineville and Wellsville, $100 each, while about $140 has been contributed by motorists and others who have visited the scenes of havoc.

The need for aid in Stop 47 district, seven miles north of here, where the tornado killed one child, injured four other persons and exacted thousands of dollars' property damage, is urgent. Much damage also resulted near Summitville and Millport and in the rural districts.

Money Needed at Once.

"I congratulate the East Liverpool Red Cross chapter, Mrs. Sarah Osterman, chairman; J. W. Moore, secretary, and W. E. Dunlap, treasurer, and Charles Costello and others at Lisbon upon the excellent manner in which relief funds have been raised," said Field Representative Bock. "The committee needs about $700 more, and East Liverpool residents are requested to raise $300 more by next Monday evening. The money is needed at once."

The relief funds will be expended for medical and hospital expenses and in purchasing furniture for persons whose homes were destroyed.

RUTH AND HORNSBY PROVE AS HARD TO SEE AS COOLIDGE AND CAESAR, SAYS GIRL WRITER AT SERIES

By Katharine Brush.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—When I say that it has taken me all this day long to see two people in the city of New York it sounds as though one person must have been at the Battery and the other in the Bronx and as though I must have tried to walk to save taxi fare or something. As a matter of fact it took me all day long to see these two people because—well, look who they are:—Mr. Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, and Mr. Babe Ruth of the Yanks.

If they had been Coolidge and Caesar, it couldn't have been much harder to see them. For today, of course, Mr. Hornsby and Mr. Ruth are the gentlemen of the hour, and some six million people had the same bright little idea about seeing them that I had.

But only a paltry few thousands of us made the grade. And under the circumstances those of us who did may perhaps be pardoned if we brag about it a little.

You will be spared the harrowing details. Journalistic ettiquette forbids my usurping space on the first page to complain about the earliness of the hour at which I arose to hunt my victims, and the utter futility of having arisen at such an hour (for it developed that the victims were busy rehearsing at the Yankee stadium and had no time for women, not even newspaper ones). Suffice it to say that it was 3 o'clock in the afternoon before I finally glimpsed Mr. Ruth—glimpsed is the word—and twenty minutes to six in the evening before my hand was shaken by the hard, strong, hand of Mr. Hornsby. I remember the hour and the moment well. My hand has not been the same since. My favorite hand, too.

I saw the great Bambino on Forty-Second street, which heaven knows is no place for an interview. He was wearing a cap and a blue suit and a broad grin trimmed with dimples, and at the moment when my eye first lit upon him he was busily engaged in trying to turn his enormous automobile around in the middle of a swarm of taxis and trolley cars. He did it, too. But that was only because the taxi-drivers and the trolley conductors recognized him, and thought perhaps on a day like this they might as well humor him.

The privacy enjoyed by Mr. Ruth in the city of Manhattan is simply wonderful. I didn't have time to count the customers who lined up to watch him get out of his car, but I wish I had a German mark, just one small German mark, for every man, woman and child and the mob that surrounded him as he crossed the pavement—a crowd that would have gladdened the heart of Mr. Tex Richard, who likes mobs probably better than any man living.

A visitor from Mars, unfamiliar with the hero-worshipping proclivities of the American public and plumped suddenly down into the midst of this scene would have demanded, bewilderedly, "what's it all about," and there would have been nothing to answer at all except that a young man skillful at causing a small ball and a yellow stick to make connections was negotiating a cement sidewalk. O tempore! O morses!

Nine words said to Mr. Ruth. They were: "How many home runs are you going to make?" Mr. Ruth said two words in reply. They were: "Search me." That was the interview.

The eyes that follow the Babe where ever he goes are merry ones. But the eyes that watch Rogers Hornsby are grave and shadowed with sympathy. The story of the valiant little Texan mother who tried to live until after her son's big job was done—and who failed — has touched the hearts of the world. Even the supposedly hard heart of the glittering world of New York. People whom Hornsby doesn't even know stop him to shake his hand and mumble condolences. And that is not so they can tell their friends they shook hands with Hornsby; it is "because they are genuinely sorry for him." He is a rather tragic figure, this stocky, clean cut manager of the Cardinals, living as he is at once the greatest and the saddest days of his life.

I saw him in the lobby of the Alamac hotel, where the St. Louis team and 13 of the players—think how unsuperstitious they must be to stand for that—are quartered during the games here. My talk with him was necessarily almost as brief as my talk with Ruth, for he was surrounded by newspaper men and trying to eat dinner to boot. But it was long enough for him to tell me that he knew—not thought, but knew—the Cards would win. And somehow the quiet conviction in the words made them seem a true prophecy.

Appeal for Fund To Save Old Mission Bell Tower Made

OCEANSIDE, Cal.—The campanile, or bell-tower of Mission San Luis Rey, erected by Fray Antonio Peyri in 1812, will be destroyed during the winter rainy season if $6,000 is not subscribed for its preservation. Franciscan fathers now occupying the mission declared in an appeal for funds.

On the morning of July 22 the bell-tower, said to be one of the most perfect examples of old mission architecture in California, collapsed, and since then the historic bells whose melodious tones have echoed throughout San Luis Rey valley for more than a century have been silent.

OCEANSIDE, Cal.—The campanile, or bell-tower of Mission San Luis Rey, erected by Fray Antonio Peyri in 1812, will be destroyed during the winter rainy season if $6,000 is not subscribed for its preservation. Franciscan fathers now occupying the mission declared in an appeal for funds.

On the morning of July 22 the bell-tower, said to be one of the most perfect examples of old mission architecture in California, collapsed, and since then the historic bells whose melodious tones have echoed throughout San Luis Rey valley for more than a century have been silent.

BOOK THREE—X.

The two walked along in silence, through sand that hugged their feet caressingly. And they came at length to a cottage called Paradise and there with one accord they stopped, smiling at one another. Yvonne sank down on the steps and took off and emptied her diminutive buckled slippers. Then she stood up. "I'm going to tell you now—my dear. But kiss me once, first, before I do—"

Her lips had never pressed harder against his. A sort of a desperate frenzy beat in their pressure. Jock thrilled to them, the while, curiously, he was reminded of a person about to do a difficult and dangerous thing, who drank deep for artificial courage.

She detached herself and sat down again, on the top step. And Jock, a little shaken, seated himself opposite, in the place she indicated. For a time neither of them said anything. Yvonne's glance roved out over the water, and the fingers that held her wrap about her were yellowish-white at the knuckles. Jock watched her . . . until, without warning, she brought her eyes to the line of his and began her narrative . . .

XI.

"I was born in a little manufacturing town in Ohio. I want you to try to visualize that town, Jock. Think of hills and smoke. Steep hills without any trees rearing up from the river, and smoke-colored clapboard houses tossed every which way down the sides of the hills. The only thing about it that was lovely was the river, and I could never bear to look at that much because my mother and father were drowned in it. When I was small. Out of a canoe . . .

"After that I lived with my aunt. She was good to me, according to her lights, but oh, she stifled me! She—well, there were hundreds of women in the town just like her, and when I was older I always thought of them as the boudoir-cap women. You know the type, don't you? Little women with little futile fussy minds. They were always worrying about the next meal, and the dust on the mantelpiece, and talking about each other's business. Oh, how I hated those women! They used to count on their fingers when any new bride was going to have a baby. . . . I hated the men, too. All the people in the town were like their houses. Self-sustained and drab and middle-class and little.

"Well, I lived there, and grew up, and went to high school, and had dates on the veranda on summer evenings, and did all the things small-town girls do. But inside I was seething. All the time. Wanting to get away from there, and live. I don't know how I knew enough to want to, but I did. Instinctively, I suppose, and then from reading. I read all the time. Gulped books. Novels and poetry — my aunt used to think it was the biggest joke, my reading poetry when I didn't have to—

"Anyway. When I was about 20—or maybe I was older than that, I've lived such eternities since, it's hard to remember—I fell in love. Oh, terrifically! I can't tell you . . ."

Her eyes, distant and misty, told Jock better than any words could have. "She loved somebody the way I love her," he thought, and knew a pang that was sympathy and jealousy in one.

"His name was Paul Kirk," she continued, "and he looked—a good deal as you look, Jock Hamill. That's why you used to tear my heart a little whenever I saw you, at first, before—before I began to care about you for your own sake. No, don't dear—don't interrupt me. Wait till I've said all I have to say.

"He had graduated from Boston Tech a couple of years before, an engineer, and he came to this town where I was living just for a few months, to do some experimental work at one of the factories. He boarded right next door. We were wild about one another from the very start. Kisses, and little notes, and all those foolish precious things. . . . My aunt didn't like it very well. She kept warning me against 'city fellows,' and so did everybody else. They resent anything from outside in towns like that. Bigoted . . .

"We planned to be married just as soon as Paul's work there was finished and he had settled in some permanent position somewhere else. He went away, and we wrote long letters full of exclamation points and words underlined—you know the kind of letters—and I began to keep a 'hope chest.' Hum. Imagine me hemming linen towels!

"Then the war.

"When I think of it now, I think of it in three stages. The first stage, when I said to myself that it was all right, the Armistice would come in just a few weeks now, I needn't worry. Then the second stage, when Paul was at training camp in Massachusetts, and I thought, 'He won't have to go. It'll be over before he can get there.' I kept telling myself that again and again—arguing with my fright.

"And then all of a sudden he wired me, and I took a train—oh, the slowest train, Jock Hamill, I can remember yet how it dragged along, all night and half the next day!—and we were married at four that afternoon in a little town near Camp Devens, where he'd been stationed." Yvonne smiled a smile without mirth, as though invisible strings were jerking her mouth up at the corners. "So funny! Just a parody of a wedding. In a shabby little house, with a shabby little minister, and the minister's wife and a fat woman who came in wiping soapsuds off her big red arms with her apron, for witnesses. The place smelled of boiling cabbage, and flies buzzed against the window panes. I'll never forget the commotion they made. It seemed to fill my ears and my mind, until I couldn't think of anything else. Mercifully, perhaps. . . . but I'd have liked things different. I'd have liked satin, and lilies, and stained glass, and the low throb of music—something to treasure beautifully through all the years."

She fell silent, and her lids dropped down, shutting away from Jock the story in her eyes. After a little her lips took it on. "We had a few hours together. And that was all. He went away, to France, and I went home. And waited and waited and waited—. . . That was the third stage. Then I thought, "It'll be all right. God will send him back safe to me.' You see I believed in God in those days, Jock Hamill. I had—the most infinite faith.

"Well—God played with me, that was all. He didn't kill Paul in the war, but He killed him later. On the boat coming home—just a day or two away from my arms. Influenza. And they buried him at sea. . . . I didn't know, of course, and I was there to meet the ship that brought his battalion back. In Boston. So happy, and all in new clothes. Almost two years I'd waited. . . . Did you ever hear of the Mothers' Boat, Jock Hamill? When the big transports got in, sometimes they'd send a little tug down the harbor to meet them, with mothers, and sweethearts, and wives. I was on one of these little tugs. Early one morn. Foggy and wet and cold—in March, it was. You couldn't see the land, nor anything but gray fog and gray water all around. They took the tug boat out a way and then they let it drift, and everybody stood quiet and tense, staring all in one direction. . . . I don't know how long we were there. A piece of forever. . . . And then finally we began to hear a foghorn, and bye and bye we could see the faint gray outlines of the transport through the mist. And they started our engine up again, and we went toward it. And when we got nearer there was a new color out of the gray. Brown. Khaki. Great lines of it—I could hardly see them, I was crying so. For joy.

Call For $700 For Tornado Sufferers

The Red Cross today appealed for $700 more to meet urgent needs in the tornado-swept district at Stop 47, north of here, and in rural sections of Columbiana county.

The appeal was issued by Theo E. Bock, of Washington, D. C., field representative of the Great Mother of Mankind, who has completed a survey of the storm-stricken zones and listed victims who need money to meet medical and hospital bills and other requirements.

Thanks to the splendid work of units of the mercy organization in East Liverpool, Lisbon, Wellsville and other sub-divisions of the county, approximately $1,700 has been raised. Of this sum East Liverpool has contributed about $200; Lisbon, $1,100; Salineville, $100; Wellsville, $100, and the remainder has come from various sources.

East Liverpool chapter leaders joined with the field representative in asking district residents to contribute at least $300 more, while $400 additional will be sought from districts which already have given $1,500. And this money should be available not later than Monday.

Come on, East Liverpool! Write your checks and mail them today to W. E. Dunlap, cashier of the First National bank and treasurer of the Red Cross chapter.

Fit For The Job

A western newspaper man, dying in the early forties, is said by the colleagues who mourn his passing to have died plainly of overwork. For years he was the first man on the job in the morning, the last man off at at night. In times of stress he went without sleep, forgot to eat, gave himself, mind and body, to the cause of building up his paper. Now the paper is going well, but its creator has gone, far too soon.

The tempation to "stay by the stuff' when an infant business is to be fed and clothed and guided through its early years, is very great. There is a parental feeling that no sacrifice can be too keen.

Most business babies, like their human counterparts, need constant, all-embracing care in their early lives. But just as a human mother must be made to get her proper rest, if she is to stay by and give the care just as much needed, though different, in the later period, just so the father of an infant business ought to make a deliberate part of his day's work the keeping fit for the job.

The constant preachment of one family doctor to the young mother is: Take care of yourself; a mother in the hospital is a liability, not an asset; a mother in the cemetery is a total loss.

It takes shrewd management to get vacations, to get half-days off for outdoor fun and relaxation. Often the business parent is just a little too tired to think he can be spared. But if he were in the hospital? A day outdoors is so much cheaper! And periods of genuine rest are immensely more productive than ceaseless activity.

London Fog

The melancholy days are come. Here's Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, London, professional prophet of dark futures, saying the British Empire is all going to pieces.

The Canadian press seems to take the Jeremiac lamentations very calmly and cheerfully indeed. The reaction of the American pess seems admirably summed up in this statement of the Cleveland Times:

"The forces working to keep the British Empire together seem, to less gloomy observers, to be stronger than those that would tear it asunder. The motherland and the great dominions are economically complementary. The 'surplus' problems of all can be largely solved within the family; England finds a market for her industrial products and Canada and Australia for the fruits of their labor in the fields. It is difficult to see why the empire should not remain a happy, prosperous, solid entity as it has been for years."

Word has not yet come in from Australia and New Zealand, but it is difficult to imagine them losing any sleep over the imminent downfall of the Empire.

Dean Inge needs to get out of his London fogs, and to draw a few breaths of that clear and glowing air which north woods devotees call "Canoojun weather."

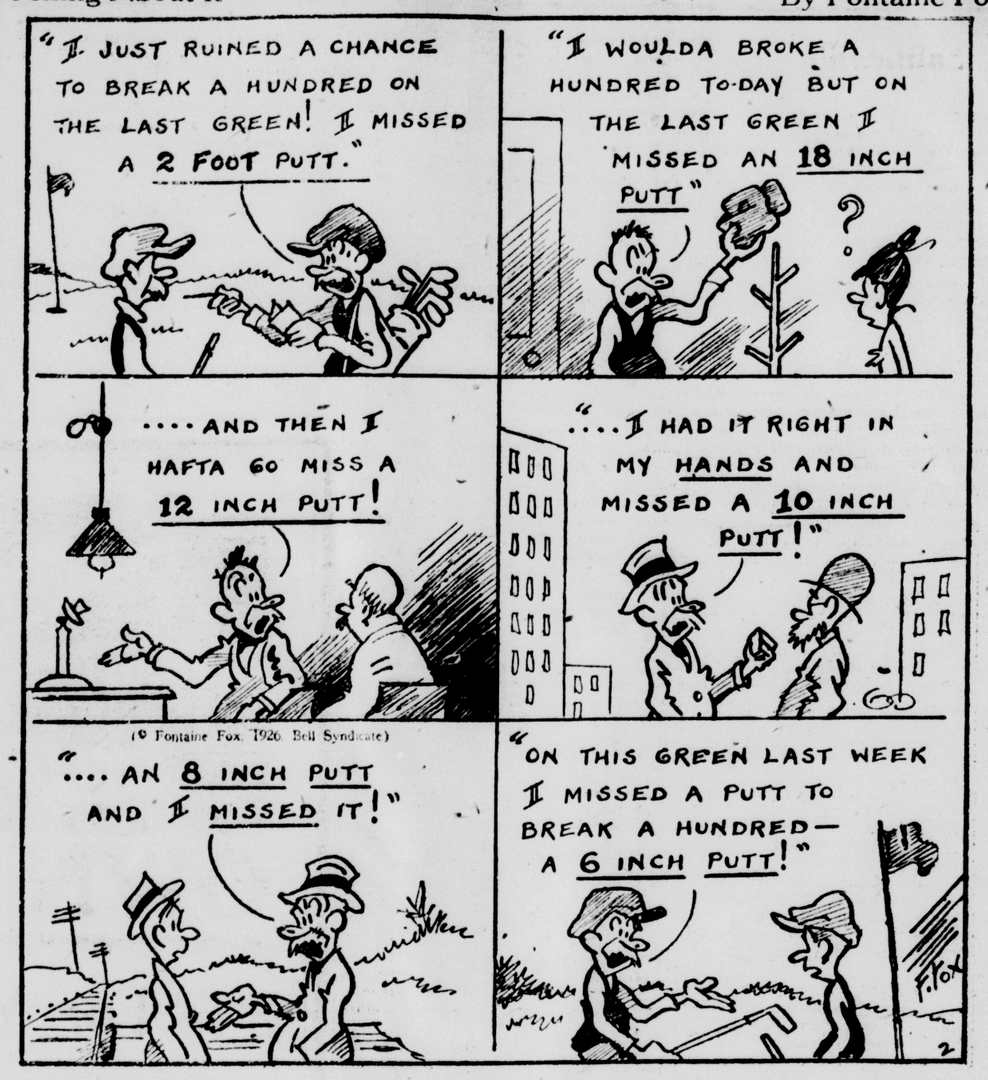

Automobile Deaths

There was a report, some weeks ago, that certain cities had reduced their motor mortality rates this year, and people began to hope that genuine improvement had begun. The department of commerce, however, says that while some communities have gained, the country as a whole has lost. In the 66 larger cities of the country, the annual death rate this year is about 18.9 per 100,000 people, while last year during the same period, the rate was 17.9.

The very great increase in number of automobiles in proportion to the population must be taken into consideration. The percentage may be larger per number of people, but it is probably smaller per 100,000 automobiles. Figured in any manner it is still far too high.

A Kansas man has made a hobby of collecting beetles, and has 100,000 specimens. What's the matter with grasshoppers?

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The prince of today is the pauper of tomorrow and vice versa, along Broadway's meandering mile. An obscure cabaret performer of a few years ago has just purchased a seaside mansion with a front yard yacht dock and private beach.

It is filled with rare hangings, round-shouldered Persian vases and richly woven carpets. It was purchased from a comedian who was elevated for a fleeting moment and wound up in a sanitarium to begin a fight for health and a footlight "comeback."

The other day a policeman found a woman kneeling in prayer in the rain near Union Square. At a hospital she was identified as a leading lady of ten years ago. She had been of the laughing crowd that was still laughing and gay a few miles north.

Broadway is not consciously cruel—it often merely forgets. Life has been keyed up to the moment. Its dazzling lights have no effulgence for those eddied into backwaters. And as dancers drop out, the dance goes on.

Spenders scatter their gold with infinite indifference and often wind up with their outstretched tincups along side streets. It is not fiction that several Broadway beggars once had favorite tables at old Rector's and Delmonico's.

It was Diamond Jim Brady who said: "Being a sucker is a lot of fun if you can afford it." But few can afford it, and thus Broadway careers so often become spectacular and brief. And those who can become so surfeited they usually move to the country.

Certain New York streets attract certain people, business and professions. Park Avenue attracts high-priced surgeons. William street is called Lawyers' Row. Maiden Lane is the great jewelry district. Nearly all the hardware stores are on Chambers street, and Duane street is filled with retail shoe stores. Most all the Syrians in New York live on Rector street.

Romance flowers quickly on this crowded little island. A sudden shower and a group was pocketed under a Broadway awning for ten minutes. He and she talked impersonally as strangers in a city will, and as the skies cleared she gave him her name and telephone number. Two days later they were married.

Not all of these hurry-up marriages end unhappily. A New Yorker who has acquired much wealth in building operations sat next to a strange lady at a matinee. She accepted his invitation to dinner, and the next day they were married. That was 19 years ago—and they are still happy.

It seems to me women drive more carefully than men in crowded centers. They are not given to rounding the corner on one wheel and they sound their horn at the least provocation. While there are few women driving taxis today, I am told that not one has ever had an accident.

I once attempted to pilot a car through heavy New York traffic. At the first corner I tangled up all around me in a snarl. A traffic officer called out: "What's the idea, young squirrel?" A discerning gentleman. He instantly spotted my nuttiness.

A druggist reports he increased his business 25 per cent by establishing a six-hour kodak film finishing service. The service itself was not profit-making, but the extra business came from those who bought other articles while getting their films.

PROPER—POINT OF VIEW

As a people, we have sufficient sense of humor to enable us to laugh at our own racial and national shortcomings. The average American enjoys nothing quite so much as he does a joke aimed at that occasional American who goes broad and gets drunk on Jingoism and spends his spare time in comparing European institutions with American institutions, always in favor of the latter.

But there is another side to the question. It is deemed fitting that this collection should include a story showing that once in a while a Britisher, from a different angle, exhibits these same characteristics which frequently mark the traveling Yankee.

As Julius Tannen tells me the story, there was an Englishman who made a tour of this continent. The tourist was a fit type and representative of a group of Englishman who think that nothing is worth while unless it is to be found on British soil, or at least under the protecting shadow of the Union Jack.

When he got back to New York after his swing across the land, an American asked him what he thought of our country.

"Oh, on the whole, rather tiresome," said the visitor.

"Didn't you see anything out of the ordinary?" asked the American.

"Cahn't say that I was especially impressed."

"Well," said the American, "you astonish me. We rather thought there were a few interesting sights over here. Did you, by any chance, see Niagara Falls?"

"Oh, yes. Spent half a day there."

"Well, isn't Niagara Falls worth looking at?"

"From the Canadian side—yes!"

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Plastic Surgery.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 2.—Did Jack Dempsey lose the world's heavyweight championship because he had had his nose remodeled? At the time the famous pugilist sought the surgeon's aid in transforming a battered proboscis into the straight and beautiful feature that is supposed to adorn a Greek god of a screen idol, the possibility of its affecting him as a fighter was wildly discussed. Predictions were made that Dempsey would never appear in the ring again, or that if he did it would be found that he was no longer of championship calibre.

The idea back of these predictions was that the mere desire to have his nose repaired indicated a radical change in Dempsey's temperament, and that having had the operation performed he would never be able to fight again without worrying over the possibility of getting his nose wrecked once more. No man can be a real scrapper who has begun to think about his manly beauty, said the psychologists; no man can put over the winning punch if he is consciously or unconsciously more concerned about preserving his own features than about battering his opponent's beyond recognition.

Whatever of merit there may have been in this theorizing, it is a fact that it took a long time to induce Dempsey to defend his title and that when he did enter the squared circle again he was anything but the fighter who defeated Willard, Carpenter, Firpo, and Gibbons. The first thing noted by the experts at the ringside was that Dempsey did not rush into the fray in his old berserker fashion, utterly reckless of what might happen to him in the way of punishment and intent only on pounding the other fellow to a pulp.

Then it was observed that his blows had lost much of their oldtime devastating effect, and that he was clinching frequently and covering up to avoid punishment. This last was something entirely foreign to Dempsey's former fighting methods.

It is also a fact that the first blow which Gene Tunney delivered was a wicked, raking jab at Dempsey's nose, and it landed where it was aimed. Thereafter the record of what Tunney was doing was largely a monotonous repetition of the terse tale of a right or left to the face. Apparently the challenger had the idea that the champion might be worrying about his features and that it was good fighting for him to do his utmost to see that Dempsey really had something to worry about in that connection. At any rate, when the fight was over Dempsey's face was a bruised, battered, swollen caricature of what it had been, and the nose was very much in need of repair again.

Effect Not All Psychological.

However, surgeons whose experience in such matters entitled them to speak with authority say that the effect of the operation on Dempsey's nose may have been not only psychological, but actually physically harmful, and the case is being cited to illustrate the very present danger attendant upon such experiments in plastic surgery. Women who are disposed to entrust themselves to so-called beauty surgeons or doctors for almost any kind of an operation—from removing wrinkles and lifting the face to eliminating a double chin or removing layers of fat around the waist—are being warned to go slow.

In short, the experts who know the most about surgery of that sort say that such operations should be undergone only in cases of necessity, and then only with the consent of a physician who will take into consideration every factor of the patient's health and physical condition. Needless to say, too, it is emphasized that such operations should be performed only by a real surgeon who is a specialist in that line.

The after effects of even the simplest of of such operations may be serious, it is said, and it has been found in numerous cases that the results were far from satisfactory, if not positively distressing, even though no harm was done.

Hence the real plastic surgeon is first of all a consultant. He advises as to the need of the operation and as to the likelihood of its effecting the desired end, and will not perform it unless he is convinced of its necessity and that it will be justifiably successful. For example, if a man has a pair of over-large ears that stick out from his head like those of the comic supplement Yellow Kid, he may want

Carbon has no harmful effect on the Willys-Knight Great Six. Nor are there any valves to grind. Its sleeve-valve engine-construction, patented exclusive—does away with both. . .

As a matter of fact, the presence of carbon in this car is a desirable condition. It serves to seal compression—to prevent power-waste. Instead of hampering and harming, and putting you to the endless inconvenience and expense of removing it, carbon literally helps the Knight engine to perform.

FIRE PROOFING COMPANY WILL ERECT PLANT AT OHIO LINE

Site Southeast of East Palestine is Selected.

700-ACRE TRACT

F. A. Hoiles, of Alliance, President of New Corporation.

The Darlington Fire Proofing company has been incorporated under the laws of Ohio with a capital stock of $400,000, and announced today plans for the erection of a plant across the state line in Pennsylvania, about two miles southeast of East Palestine.

At a meeting of the incorporators, the following officers were elected: President, F. A. Hoiles, Alliance; vice-president and general manager, J. E. White, Alliance; secreary, W. B. Carson, Pittsburgh; treasurer, F. A. Hoiles. The directors are W. H. Reed, New York; N. B. Billingsley, Lisbon; Alice J. Hoiles, E. L. Guthrie and Arthur J. Hoiles, Alliance.

The company has taken over a 700-acre tract of coal and fire clay lands between Darlington and East Palestine, where it will carry on operations. The proposed plant will be 1,322 feet in length and will be located on the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western railroad. The factory will offer employment to 100 or 125 men.

In addition to the coal and clay lands purchased outright, the company has signed a contract with the White Clay Mine company for a fire clay supply giving the concern a 200-year supply of raw materials. Three hundred tons of fire-proofing materials will be produced daily by the plant.

Attorney L. M. Kyes, East Palestine, was largely instrumental in landing the new industry. The new plant will be the sixth large clay product plant to be located in the East Palestine-Darlington district.

LIME CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

More Than 9,000 Tons Used by Farmers of State.

The lime campaign that has been in progress in twenty-six counties of West Virginia during the past two end of the tour of the Soil Improvement Special and the assembling of months reached its climax with the the orders for liming materials, which amounted to more than nine thousand tons.

Many experiments and demonstration with lime which have been conducted at the West Virginia, Ohio, and other experiment stations and on numerous farms in this state show conclusively that each ton of limestone or its equivalent in other forms when properly used gives additional crop returns worth more than $16.00 and more than $10.00 net return to the user.

On this basis the nine thousand tons will result in an addition net income of $90,000 or more for West Virginia farmers. In view of the present low farm incomes, and the need for economy in expenditure, these figures are very significent, says D. R. Dodd, extension agronomy specialist of the West Virginia College of Agriculture, and indicate a possibility of greatly increased returns through wise investment.

The systematic use of lime has just begun in West Virginia. Mr. Dodd states, and probably five times the present amount used annually would more nearly represent the most profitable practice.

The Darlington Fire Proofing company has been incorporated under the laws of Ohio with a capital stock of $400,000, and announced today plans for the erection of a plant across the state line in Pennsylvania, about two miles southeast of East Palestine.

At a meeting of the incorporators, the following officers were elected: President, F. A. Hoiles, Alliance; vice-president and general manager, J. E. White, Alliance; secreary, W. B. Carson, Pittsburgh; treasurer, F. A. Hoiles. The directors are W. H. Reed, New York; N. B. Billingsley, Lisbon; Alice J. Hoiles, E. L. Guthrie and Arthur J. Hoiles, Alliance.

The company has taken over a 700-acre tract of coal and fire clay lands between Darlington and East Palestine, where it will carry on operations. The proposed plant will be 1,322 feet in length and will be located on the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western railroad. The factory will offer employment to 100 or 125 men.

In addition to the coal and clay lands purchased outright, the company has signed a contract with the White Clay Mine company for a fire clay supply giving the concern a 200-year supply of raw materials. Three hundred tons of fire-proofing materials will be produced daily by the plant.

Attorney L. M. Kyes, East Palestine, was largely instrumental in landing the new industry. The new plant will be the sixth large clay product plant to be located in the East Palestine-Darlington district.

LIME CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

The lime campaign that has been in progress in twenty-six counties of West Virginia during the past two end of the tour of the Soil Improvement Special and the assembling of months reached its climax with the the orders for liming materials, which amounted to more than nine thousand tons.

Many experiments and demonstration with lime which have been conducted at the West Virginia, Ohio, and other experiment stations and on numerous farms in this state show conclusively that each ton of limestone or its equivalent in other forms when properly used gives additional crop returns worth more than $16.00 and more than $10.00 net return to the user.

On this basis the nine thousand tons will result in an addition net income of $90,000 or more for West Virginia farmers. In view of the present low farm incomes, and the need for economy in expenditure, these figures are very significent, says D. R. Dodd, extension agronomy specialist of the West Virginia College of Agriculture, and indicate a possibility of greatly increased returns through wise investment.

The systematic use of lime has just begun in West Virginia. Mr. Dodd states, and probably five times the present amount used annually would more nearly represent the most profitable practice.

LABOR'S CO-OPERATIVE PAGE

Home Owners

The value of your home is based upon the prosperity of EAST LIVERPOOL. That is a fact, is it not? And an increase in East Liverpool's prosperity would be reflected in the value of your home. That too is a fact, isn't it? You would like to see your real estate increase in value, wouldn't you? Here is a way you can help get that increased valuation. By spending your dollars with East Liverpool merchants, THE HOME TOWN MERCHANT, you increase the posperity of East Liverpool. Be cause it is the profit dollar that builds up this or any other community. Dollars spent with home merchants continue to circulate at home and it is the amount of money in circulation in this community that determines its prosperity.

Every dollar you spend away or send away from East Liverpool make some other community more prosperous and East Liverpool less prosperous, and by so spending your money you are, in fact, helping to reduce the value of the very home in which you live. The home you hoped would increase in value and show you a profit on your investment. Practically everything you need can be bought in East Liverpool at a reasonable price. You could really afford to pay a little more in the Home Town, but you do not have to, for East Liverpool Merchants meet competition. In fact, investigation shows that much merchandise can be bought in East Liverpool at a lower price than in larger cities.

Why not adopt the policy of making your dollar work for you even after you spend it? When you spend it in a manner to increase the prosperity of East Liverpool it continues to work for you. It will increase the value of your home.

Let us all put into action this idea of cooperation for a bigger and better East Liverpool. It can be done, and the doing will pay big dividends to every property owner in this city.

REMEMBER — THE DOLLARS YOU SPEND AT HOME RETURN TO YOU.

Trade Unionism

In this period of world reconstruction or organization and in which we are now struggling, and the mad rush for the acquiring and holding of vast fortunes, no matter how much suffering is caused, brings us face to face with the fact that the organization of the working class is an absolute necessity for self preservation, and is the only means and hope for the laboring class, and the securing of the members of labor unions the fruits of their labor, thus enabling them to maintain themselves, families and homes properly.

Trade Unionism is the philosophy of human justice in the world of industry. Its creed is the Golden Rule, and its doctrine finds millions of adherents, because it begins with elementary principles by pointing to the way of the material solution of differences.

The philosophy of trade unionism is disseminated most effectively through the educational campaign so untiringly waged by those individuals and organizations in the ranks of organized labor who have the love for humanity at heart, and their march is onward and forward, propelled by the irresistible power of enlightened conscience.

The noble philosophy of trade unionism has, through its unswerving purpose permanently established its boundaries and cannot and will not be appropriated to any party or platform. The doctrines that have given a newer and brighter outlook on life to the millions of toilers will not be distorted by ambitious seekers of self-glorification.

Without organized labor and the capital organized as it is, the condition of the workers would soon degenerate into industrial slavery. It would have become an inevitable consequence of competition. Industrial slavery means debasement of the people and the national decline.

Let labor be thoroughly organized, then let wages and conditions of labor be fixed by collective bargaining between representatives of the two interests, in the same manner as business between two governments is adjusted by their diplomatic agents.

Capital organizes, and labor, for its own protection, must also organize. Every man has a right to the result of his labor, and his right must be defended by all that is sound in industrial economy. The labor issue involves the whole scheme of competition, which, in turn, includes self interest and selfishness. The combination of labor is an expedient pending the time when the whole industrial system will be established on the line of the Golden Rule.

Yankees Slight Favorite As Series Opens In New York

Sherdel For Cards

Hugmen Given Edge In Opener on Theory Pennock Will Pitch

Capacity Crowd Throngs Stadium; Speculators Offer Three-game Series Tickets, Originally Priced at $16.50, for $100 and More; Fans Wait Through Night for Bleacher Seats.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The proverbs make due note of the fact that the worm eventually turned, but they fail to say whether he snarled, bit, hissed in a most unsportsmanlike manner or merely bowed and passed on. The proverbs really needed a good rewrite man. Shakespeare couldn't have been a dramatist without a climax and Santa Claus could never have had whiskers without a chin.

The climax and the chin whisker to the drama of the turning worm will be supplied this afternoon at the Yankee stadium with 63,000 persons inside and the whole world listening at the gates. The occasion will be the opening game of the 1926 world series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals and, by nightfall, all will be afforded a fairly adequate idea of whether the worm turned just to look at its shoulder blades or to lash out with malignant hate, born of hope deferred and long frustrated.

Anyone who has known the Cardinals in courageous though seemingly inevitable defeat for thirty-eight years cannot accept the simile of the worm without reservations. They were more like the rattler, game to the last but destined for extinction.

First In 38 Years.

Yet the fact remains that, between 1888 and 1925, St. Louis was denied a flag winner and that, in 1926, the Cardinals turned against the teams that had fought them off in the past and in one of the finest races in National League history, they won the pennant in the final week of the season. The Tiger fights to the death and deserves no need for credit for it. But the turning worm is a downright hero.

That is the reason a capacity crowd will run riot through the far reaches of the stadium this afternoon, its numbers limited only by the fact that the walls are made of concrete and not rubber. That is the reason speculators are lining the sidewalks this morning, disposing of three-game tickets, originally priced at $16.50, for $100 or more.

That is the reason, also, that diehards, if at all, waited through the still watches of the night, buoyed up by coffee and the prospect of a great spectacle, for the general admission gates to open at 10 o'clock. It was reason enough that a St. Louis team was in a modern world's series for the first time.

Yanks at 6 to 5.

And, just to show that they find it hard to believe even now, the baseball public made the Yankees a series favorite at odds of 6 to 5, although many critics seemed convinced that the New York outfit lacked the Cards' general balance and class. The Yanks also were favored at 13 to 10 to win the opening game, largely on the supposition that Herb Pennock was due to pitch. The boys may yet have to second guess this one.

In fact, it was generally conceded this morning that Miller Huggins was wavering between Pennock and Urban Shocker as his nominee, with the chances favoring the latter. He made a most commendable record against the Cards in the St. Louis city series, but those were the old Cards and these are the new.

The Cardinal pitcher, it was announced more or less sub-rosa last night, will be Bill Sherdel, the cross-firing, slow-balling left hander. The Yanks have no particular esteem for that type of hombre, especially Ruth, Meusel, Gehrig and the other free swingers. They seem to have a bad habit of swinging at the second one before the slow baller is finished with his first, a rather reprehensible proceeding. Grover Cleveland Alexander, the elder, had been the original choice of the intelligentsia but Rogers Hornsby, it seems, prefers to do his own picking.

Alex or Rhem Next.

Alexander may get the assignment for the second game tomorrow, although the writer was given to understand that the gentleman has lost favor with Hornsby. If this be the case, Flint Rhem may be the man or it may be Jesse Haines, Reinhart, Herman, Bell, Sothoron or Keen. The chances were, however, that either Alexander or Rhem would appear in either of the first two games, in spite of the fact that the Yankees like their pitchers fast and their base hits lengthy. Pennock and Shocker were almost certain to pitch the first two games here for the Yanks.

Much depended on what happened in the first game and a general shifting of forces, to say nothing of the gambling odds, would result if the Cards won the premiere of the series. The writer regards them as an excellent bet, not only for this game but the series as well.

No club ever went anywhere in a world's series with a five-thumbed shortstop. The Yankees appeared to have one in Mark Koenig, who became famous this year for kicking them away at very difficult angles. No club ever went far in this series, either, without first class catchers. Both Collins and Severeid, of the Yankees, hardly could be held in this light.

Mrs. J. H. Stetson and Mrs. Wright Goss to Clash for Golf Title

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Oct. 2.—Mrs. J. H. Stetson, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Wright Goss, of New York, met today in the finals of the women's golf championship.

Mrs. Stetson is the eastern champion, a title won last June in Philadelphia. Her golf has improved rapidly in the last two years. Her game is not a long one but it is straight and usually sure. Mrs. Stetson is supposed to be the better player over the thirty-six hole route.

Mrs. Goss has played fine golf all week, not once going over 84 and may win the title if she can keep up this pace.

Fight Results

AT SAN FRANCISCO—King Tutt, of Minneapolis, won from Billy Alger of the Pacific Coast, ten rounds.

Jack Beasley and Harry Hedderman, both of San Francisco, fought six rounds to a draw.

AT CEDAR RAPIDS—Jack Malone, of St. Paul, knocked out Jimmy Gorg, of St. Louis, in the third round.

FOOTBALL IN FULL SWAY

Huggins-Hornsby Confident Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Both Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, and Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinals' pilot, were confident of victory today as their teams met in the opening world's series game.

"I am confident the Yankees will win," Huggins said. "The week's rest has restored our morale and that's all we need. My sluggers and pitchers will do the rest."

"The Cardinals will win because our spirit is better than the Yankees' and we have the harder punch," declared Hornsby. "We showed better form at the end of the season than the Yanks."

BADGERS FACE STIFF SCHEDULE

Coach Little Refuses to Make Any Predictions.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 2.—With one of the stiffest schedules ever outlined for Badger eleven confronting his gridiron wards, Head Coach George Little discreetly refrains from venturing any predictions so far as his 1926 Cardinal entry is concerned. But he would have the other folks of the Western conference pay respectful heed when he broadcasts a few words and phrases relative to the outlook at Camp Randall Field.

"I am making no promise," declared the Badger strategist, now launching his second season in command here, "for I am mindful of the obstacles that lie ahead of Wisconsin. Both Michigan and Minnesota will send powerful teams upon the field and each lineup will be heavily stocked with veterans. However, I'll have a fighting machine and none of our opponents can be sure of victory until the games are over.

"One of my hardest tasks will be that of keeping the Wisconsin team keyed up all season, inasmuch as there are no open dates on our schedule, which calls for six consecutive games with Big Ten opponents after two preliminary contests. It is going to be quite a job pointing for a fierce struggle each week-end.

"Wisconsin has turned out splendid material this year and if we can find 30 men, good and true, and able to stand the pace, I'll be satisfied."

Heavy Games.

Coach Little spoke a considerable mouthful, too, when he alluded to the ponderous program prescribed for his huskies. After engaging Cornell college on October 2 and Kansas on October 9, in the so-called warm-up battles, the Badgers will be in the midst of their conference melee, opposing on succeeding Saturdays the Boilermakers of Purdue, Pat Page's squad, Minnesota; Michigan, Iowa and Chicago.

Chances are that, were it possible, Little would have taken on Ohio State and Northwestern turning down the first two dates but sometimes coaches have their troubles adjusting a satisfactory schedule.

Of the 74 candidates who responded to the first official practice call, 14 are letter men, five of them backs, two ends, and seven linemen. The losses from last season include Capt Polaski, Nelson Slipke, Leo Harmon Harry McAndrews, Long, McCormick, Sauger and Blackman.

Five veteran backs are in the harness in the proceedings which are staged daily at Camp Randall. Incidentally, from now on, the Badgers will be limited to two hours football rehearsal each afternoon, under the new ruling of the conference powers.

Quintet of Backs.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

During the first half of the back swing, and at the point in the back swing where the toe of the club points directly upward, the wrists and the grip should be slightly firm. Right at this point, when the club is elevated to the top, is where the swing is lost to many golfers. From this point upward they do two things to upset the rhythm. They take the club up too quickly and they loosen the grip. The grip loosens because of the great speed of the clubhead going up, since the player would be pulled off his feet if he didn't let go of the club and give it some slack in his wrists to absorb its stop. The reverse of this must apply. Keep the club action slow and to a natural pace and let the grip tighten some as you elevate the club. Then you can whip it back effectively.

BIG TEN TEAMS GO INTO ACTION

Big Three, Army and Navy Also Making Debut.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The 1926 football season will make its third and final debut today when the Army and Navy elevens and the members of the Big Ten and the Big Three swing into action.

Harvard, playing its first game under the regime of Arnold Horween, former Crimson star, will tackle Geneva, which gave Cornell a hard fight last week. Yale will try out the huddle system against Boston University and Princeton will meet Amherst, a no mean antagonist.

The Army eleven, now coached by "Biff" Jones, faces a hardy foe in Detroit University and the Navy, also working under a new coach, Billingram, will have no picnic against Purdue.

An intersectional clash between Chicago and Florida will take place in Chicago. Michigan will entertain the Oklahoma Aggies and Indiana takes on De Pauw. Other games in this section are Illinois vs. Coe, Iowa vs. Greeley, Wisconsin vs. Cornell college, Ohio State vs. Wittenberg, Minnesota vs. North Dakota and Nebraska vs. Drake. Notre Dame has a fairly easy opponent in Beloit.

The outstanding contests in the south are the Tennessee-North Carolina, Georgia Tech-V. M. I., South Carolina-Maryland and Tulane-Missouri clashes.

In the east, Dartmouth undoubtedly will slaughter little Hobart and Pennsylsvania should win from Johns Hopkins. Other eastern games are Cornell vs. Niagara, Syracuse vs. Vermont, Colgate vs. Clarkson, Penn State vs. Lebanon Valley, Brown vs. Colby, St. Johns vs. Holy Cross, Rutgers vs. Ursinus, Columbia vs Union, and New York University vs. Allegheny.

FACE TEST IN AKRON GAME

Highs Take on Hard Assignment Today.

Coach George Kidder's Blue and White eleven will face its first big test of the season this afternoon at Columbian park in the game with the Akron East team. The contest was scheduled to get under way at 3:30 o'clock.

The locals go into the contest with a backfield weakened to a certain extent by the absence of Fullback Holmes who injured a knee in last Saturday's game. Coach Kidder expects to use Bromby, Fullerton, Walt Smith and Lincoln in the backfield.

Showers May Hit Inaugural Tilt

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Cloudy weather prevailed in New York this morning, with possible showers predicted for this afternoon when the Yankees clash with the St. Louis Cardinals in the first world's series game. The official forecast for this afternoon was "partly cloudy, with rising temperature and possibly thunder showers."

The weather was considerably warmer this morning. A light rain fell during the night.

BISONS OPEN AT WESLEYAN

Nuss Pleased at Showing of His Squad in Practice.

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 2.—Highly elated over the form shown so far this year by most every man on the Bethany college football squad, Coach Nuss is now enjoying a sigh of relief, even though George Fickley, of Crafton, Pa., and Jack Hamill, of Wheeling, W. Va., star linemen, will be unable to participate in the Bisons' opening engagement today against West Virginia Wesleyan. It is a severe blow to the Bisons leader to have two star players on the injured list after their fine work so far, but the work of Bell, Brandon, Bates and Burwell, who are being tried in the varsity line, to replace these boys, has been of a nature that is highly commendable.

In the limelight of the afternoon's scrimmage was the work of Bud Keating, Pittsburgh boy, and Roe, Warwood high star, who is making a strong bid for a job in the varsity backfield. Keating, who has been working at left end on the second eleven, showed fine defensive play, and he will probably break into the game Saturday as understudy to Hamill, Hagberg or Segiel.

In the case of Roe, whose work has featured practically every scrimmage, Coach Russ has a lad who can run the ball, forward pass, and still play a good defensive game. No doubt Roe will be found in the game Saturday.

Another varsity man from whom big things are expected is "Hump" Neel, who plays the halfback post opposite Stobbs. Neel was a demon on the Bethany offense two years ago, and by the looks of things this year, Neel will be in the lineup to even better his wonderful record of 1924, in which year was included two long runs for touchdowns through the entire Washington-Jefferson backfield.

In recent practice sessions, Kinsey, Neel, Carey and Roe formed the backfield of the team representing the varsity with Hagberg and Hamill playing the wings. The remaining personnel of the line was Burwell, Stewart, Tinson, Brandon and Price. Gilgan, Fiers, Stobbs, Baker and Imel saw service before the scrimmage was concluded, in Coach Nuss' latest plan of weeding out the choice men.

On the second eleven were Bender, Keating and the Behm brothers in the backfield. Segiel and Shives at the ends—and Bates, Brock, Stonestreet, Rush and Bell, in the line. This is idea of the Bison mentor in picking out his varsity material has proved to be a tactful move, as the work of the majority of the men trying for berths has been brought in practically every department of play.

Much is expected of Dale Fiers, Florida lad, and one of last year's main cogs in the line, who is this year playing the fullback position. Although not the fastest man in the backfield, Fiers possesses enough fight and spirit to rip through enemy lines almost at will, providing he keeps up the steady pace which has characterized his pre-season performances.

Army-Navy Auction Brings In $125,000

Chicago's "Four Hundred," Bids Lively for 470 Boxes; $2,500 Paid for Box No. 1 "Just Behind the President."

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Auction sale of box seats for the Army-Navy football game, to be played at Soldiers' Memorial field here Nov. 27, netted $125,000, Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, announced today.

The sale was held yesterday in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. During the five hours of eager bidding, 470 boxes, averaging six seats, were sold. Chicago "Four Hundred" were there en masse.

Society attended the sale in the spirit of a lark. They died good-natured but earnest. The choice boxes were those nearest the one reserved for President Coolidge and his party.

But fortune mocked those who bid with this in view. Just as the sale was closing, a telgraphic dispatch from Washington stated that President Coolidge would not attend.

The disappointment occasioned by this news was tempered somewhat by Washington dispatches stating that Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, together with their official parties, would be among those present."

F. Frank Croissant, prominent real estate operator and turfman, outbid the field for the first box. It was box No. 1, on the Army side, "just behind the president." Mr. Croissant paid $2,500 for these six seats.

THORPE RETURNS TO CANTON TEAM

CANTON, Oct. 2.—Jim Thorpe, greatest of them all, has returned to the Bulldogs, his first professional "love," and probably will be seen in action Sunday afternoon at Lakeside stadiums against the Louisville Colonels.

Thorpe likely will be used at fullback, to punch the line, dividing the burden with Pete Calac, another "redskin" and a pal of Thorpe's during the "old days" here and at Carlisle. Thorpe now is heavier than he was when he played with Dogs before.

Sherdel For Cards

Hugmen Given Edge In Opener on Theory Pennock Will Pitch

Capacity Crowd Throng s Stadium; Speculators Offer Three-game Se ries Tickets, Originally Priced at $16.50, for $100 and More; Fans Wait Through Night for Bleacher Seats.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The proverbs make due note of the fact that the worm eventually turned, but they fail to say whether he snarled, bit, hissed in a most unsportsmanlike manner or merely bowed and passed on. The proverbs really needed a good rewrite man. Shakespeare couldn't have been a dramatist without a climax and Santa Claus could never have had whiskers without a chin.

The climax and the chin whisker to the drama of the turning worm will be supplied this afternoon at the Yankee stadium with 63,000 persons inside and the whole world listening at the gates. The occasion will be the opening game of the 1926 world series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals and, by nightfall, all will be afforded a fairly adequate idea of whether the worm turned just to look at its shoulder blades or to lash out with malignant hate, born of hope deferred and long frustrated.

Anyone who has known the Cardinals in courageous though seemingly inevitable defeat for thirty-eight years cannot accept the simile of the worm without reservations. They were more like the rattler, game to the last but destined for extinction.

First In 38 Years.

Yet the fact remains that, between 1888 and 1925, St. Louis was denied a flag winner and that, in 1926, the Cardinals turned against the teams that had fought them off in the past and in one of the finest races in National League history, they won the pennant in the final week of the season. The Tiger fights to the death and deserves no need for credit for it. But the turning worm is a downright hero.

That is the reason a capacity crowd will run riot through the far reaches of the stadium this afternoon, its numbers limited only by the fact that the walls are made of concrete and not rubber. That is the reason speculators are lining the sidewalks this morning, disposing of three-game tickets, originally priced at $16.50, for $100 or more.

That is the reason, also, that diehards, if at all, waited through the still watches of the night, buoyed up by coffee and the prospect of a great spectacle, for the general admission gates to open at 10 o'clock. It was reason enough that a St. Louis team was in a modern world's series for the first time.

Yanks at 6 to 5.

And, just to show that they find it hard to believe even now, the baseball public made the Yankees a series favorite at odds of 6 to 5, although many critics seemed convinced that the New York outfit lacked the Cards' general balance and class. The Yanks also were favored at 13 to 10 to win the opening game, largely on the supposition that Herb Pennock was due to pitch. The boys may yet have to second guess this one.

In fact, it was generally conceded this morning that Miller Huggins was wavering between Pennock and Urban Shocker as his nominee, with the chances favoring the latter. He made a most commendable record against the Cards in the St. Louis city series, but those were the old Cards and these are the new.

The Cardinal pitcher, it was announced more or less sub-rosa last night, will be Bill Sherdel, the cross-firing, slow-balling left hander. The Yanks have no particular esteem for that type of hombre, especially Ruth, Meusel, Gehrig and the other free swingers. They seem to have a bad habit of swinging at the second one before the slow baller is finished with his first, a rather reprehensible proceeding. Grover Cleveland Alexander, the elder, had been the original choice of the intelligentsia but Rogers Hornsby, it seems, prefers to do his own picking.

Alex or Rhem Next.

Alexander may get the assignment for the second game tomorrow, although the writer was given to understand that the gentleman has lost favor with Hornsby. If this be the case, Flint Rhem may be the man or it may be Jesse Haines, Reinhart, Herman, Bell, Sothoron or Keen. The chances were, however, that either Alexander or Rhem would appear in either of the first two games, in spite of the fact that the Yankees like their pitchers fast and their base hits lengthy. Pennock and Shocker were almost certain to pitch the first two games here for the Yanks.

Much depended on what happened in the first game and a general shifting of forces, to say nothing of the gambling odds, would result if the Cards won the premiere of the series. The writer regards them as an excellent bet, not only for this game but the series as well.

No club ever went anywhere in a world's series with a five-thumbed shortstop. The Yankees appeared to have one in Mark Koenig, who became famous this year for kicking them away at very difficult angles. No club ever went far in this series, either, without first class catchers. Both Collins and Severeid, of the Yankees, hardly could be held in this light.

Mrs. J. H. Stetson and Mrs. Wright Goss to Clash for Golf Title

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Oct. 2.—Mrs. J. H. Stetson, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Wright Goss, of New York, met today in the finals of the women's golf championship.

Mrs. Stetson is the eastern champion, a title won last June in Philadelphia. Her golf has improved rapidly in the last two years. Her game is not a long one but it is straight and usually sure. Mrs. Stetson is supposed to be the better player over the thirty-six hole route.

Mrs. Goss has played fine golf all week, not once going over 84 and may win the title if she can keep up this pace.

Fight Results

AT SAN FRANCISCO—King Tutt, of Minneapolis, won from Billy Alger of the Pacific Coast, ten rounds.

Jack Beasley and Harry Hedderman, both of San Francisco, fought six rounds to a draw.

AT CEDAR RAPIDS—Jack Malone, of St. Paul, knocked out Jimmy Gorg, of St. Louis, in the third round.

FOOTBALL IN FULL SWAY

Huggins-Hornsby Confident Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Both Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, and Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinals' pilot, were confident of victory today as their teams met in the opening world's series game.

"I am confident the Yankees will win," Huggins said. "The week's rest has restored our morale and that's all we need. My sluggers and pitchers will do the rest."

"The Cardinals will win because our spirit is better than the Yankees' and we have the harder punch," declared Hornsby. "We showed better form at the end of the season than the Yanks."

BADGERS FACE STIFF SCHEDULE

Coach Little Refuses to Make Any Predictions.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 2.—With one of the stiffest schedules ever outlined for Badger eleven confronting his gridiron wards, Head Coach George Little discreetly refrains from venturing any predictions so far as his 1926 Cardinal entry is concerned. But he would have the other folks of the Western conference pay respectful heed when he broadcasts a few words and phrases relative to the outlook at Camp Randall Field.

"I am making no promise," declared the Badger strategist, now launching his second season in command here, "for I am mindful of the obstacles that lie ahead of Wisconsin. Both Michigan and Minnesota will send powerful teams upon the field and each lineup will be heavily stocked with veterans. However, I'll have a fighting machine and none of our opponents can be sure of victory until the games are over.

"One of my hardest tasks will be that of keeping the Wisconsin team keyed up all season, inasmuch as there are no open dates on our schedule, which calls for six consecutive games with Big Ten opponents after two preliminary contests. It is going to be quite a job pointing for a fierce struggle each week-end.

"Wisconsin has turned out splendid material this year and if we can find 30 men, good and true, and able to stand the pace, I'll be satisfied."

Heavy Games.

Coach Little spoke a considerable mouthful, too, when he alluded to the ponderous program prescribed for his huskies. After engaging Cornell college on October 2 and Kansas on October 9, in the so-called warm-up battles, the Badgers will be in the midst of their conference melee, opposing on succeeding Saturdays the Boilermakers of Purdue, Pat Page's squad, Minnesota; Michigan, Iowa and Chicago.

Chances are that, were it possible, Little would have taken on Ohio State and Northwestern turning down the first two dates but sometimes coaches have their troubles adjusting a satisfactory schedule.

Of the 74 candidates who responded to the first official practice call, 14 are letter men, five of them backs, two ends, and seven linemen. The losses from last season include Capt Polaski, Nelson Slipke, Leo Harmon Harry McAndrews, Long, McCormick, Sauger and Blackman.

Five veteran backs are in the harness in the proceedings which are staged daily at Camp Randall. Incidentally, from now on, the Badgers will be limited to two hours football rehearsal each afternoon, under the new ruling of the conference powers.

Quintet of Backs.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

During the first half of the back swing, and at the point in the back swing where the toe of the club points directly upward, the wrists and the grip should be slightly firm. Right at this point, when the club is elevated to the top, is where the swing is lost to many golfers. From this point upward they do two things to upset the rhythm. They take the club up too quickly and they loosen the grip. The grip loosens because of the great speed of the clubhead going up, since the player would be pulled off his feet if he didn't let go of the club and give it some slack in his wrists to absorb its stop. AMERICAN

BOWLING AND BILLIARD PARLORS

122 East Sixth Street. East Liverpool, Ohio.

Will Clash in Mud.

OBERLIN — Oberlin and Marietta will play on a muddy gridiron, a deluge approaching cloudburst proportions having drenched the field as Coach Maceachron's charges took their final light workout yesterday. It is not certain whether Capt. Zwick will start at center or guard, but the rest of the lineup will be the same as last week.

Rio Grande at Athens.

ATHENS — Ohio university will open its gridiron campaign against Rio Grande without the services of Capt. Wise, end; Duncan, guard; Shafery, center, and Sweeney, quarterback; all veterans. They are all nursing injuries. Light signal practice was held yesterday. Ohio's supporters are hoping for a repetition of last year's 19-3 victory.

Bearcats Are Confident.

CINCINNATI — A gigantic "pep" meeting of the entire student body featured the brief practice session yesterday of the University of Cincinnati Bearcats who play Otterbein today. More interest in football is being manifested here this fall than in any past season.

Rain Dampens Zipper Hopes.

AKRON.—Rain and prospect of more today dampened the hopes the Zippers have of beating Case here in the Akron-Case game. Coach Babcock declared he will use the same team which defeated Defiance last week. In past year, Case has won five games against Akron, lost four and tied three.

Wooster Line Weakened.

WOOSTER—Wooster goes into its opening game of the season with two tackles on the bench with injuries. Lippert is out with a twisted knee and Stoll will be unable to start because of cuts received outside of practice. Young and Blough this afternoon practiced kicking. The opener will be with Ashland.

Haskin's Letter

them reduced in size and pinned back, so to speak. There is no real need for the operation, for large, floppy ears function just as well as the most pulchritudinous ones, but if the deformity is so pronounced as to have a mental effect upon the man, the surgeon may agree that an operation is justified. Then if he finds that it will likely bring about worth while results he will undertake it.

The beauty surgeon, on the other hand, as a rule works primarily on a commercial basis. He will operate on any set of ears that the wearer regards as unsatisfactory, and with little regard to the prospect for real improvement in the deformity or its complete correction.

War-time Developments.

Marvelous advances in plastic surgery were made during the World war and in the post-war rehabilitation of the unfortunate victims of the terrible conflict. Men who had suffered the most ghastly wounds about the face and head were operated upon, sometimes repeatdly over a long period, and made presentable, so that they need not be conscious of their appearance when they faced the world again. In work of that kind the surgeons take great pride. There was a very real need for it, and the possible results invariably made it worth while.

So, too, they are glad to undertake operations to correct deformities that are unsightly and that have a pressing effect upon the persons who are afflicted with them, and they can do almost miraculous things with the ears, nose, scars, eyelids, drooping cheeks, double chins, wrinkles, excessive fat around the abdomen or the feet and ankles, and similar visible defects.

They are reluctant, however, to take the cases of persons who are merely obsessed with the idea that something can and should be done to improve their looks. Most often these prospective patients are women who have seen their beauty fade away under the ravages of age, or as a result of over-eating, or injudicious diet, and who are willing to suffer any pain and discomfort and pay any fee to be restored to their pristine beauty and shapeliness. It is seldom that anything can be done for them by plastic surgery that they will find satisfactory, for they are in a mental state such that no reasonable improvement would satisfy them. Among such women the quacks and unscrupulous beauty surgeons finds easy marks.

When the slender figure became fashionable the plastic surgeons were besieged by obese women who were not content to attain slim contours through the slow process of diet and exercise, but who wanted the fat cut off. It can be done. Hospital records show that twenty, thirty, and even fifty pounds of skin and fat have been removed from the abdomens of women who were in a hurry to reduce. Similarly the double chin and too much fat around the neck can be made to yield to the knife.

But the best cure for over-weight is judicious dieting, and even that should be prescribed and directed by a physician.

Will Clash in Mud.

OBERLIN — Oberlin and Marietta will play on a muddy gridiron, a deluge approaching cloudburst proportions having drenched the field as Coach Maceachron's charges took their final light workout yesterday. It is not certain whether Capt. Zwick will start at center or guard, but the rest of the lineup will be the same as last week.

Rio Grande at Athens.

ATHENS — Ohio university will open its gridiron campaign against Rio Grande without the services of Capt. Wise, end; Duncan, guard; Shafery, center, and Sweeney, quarterback; all veterans. They are all nursing injuries. Light signal practice was held yesterday. Ohio's supporters are hoping for a repetition of last year's 19-3 victory.

Bearcats Are Confident.

CINCINNATI — A gigantic "pep" meeting of the entire student body featured the brief practice session yesterday of the University of Cincinnati Bearcats who play Otterbein today. More interest in football is being manifested here this fall than in any past season.

Rain Dampens Zipper Hopes.

AKRON.—Rain and prospect of more today dampened the hopes the Zippers have of beating Case here in the Akron-Case game. Coach Babcock declared he will use the same team which defeated Defiance last week. In past year, Case has won five games against Akron, lost four and tied three.

Wooster Line Weakened.

WOOSTER.—Wooster goes into its opening game of the season with two tackles on the bench with injuries. Lippert is out with a twisted knee and Stoll will be unable to start because of cuts received outside of practice. Young and Blough this afternoon practiced kicking. The opener will be with Ashland.

them reduced in size and pinned back, so to speak. There is no real need for the operation, for large, floppy ears function just as well as the most pulchritudinous ones, but if the deformity is so pronounced as to have a mental effect upon the man, the surgeon may agree that an operation is justified. Then if he finds that it will likely bring about worth while results he will undertake it.

The beauty surgeon, on the other hand, as a rule works primarily on a commercial basis. He will operate on any set of ears that the wearer regards as unsatisfactory, and with little regard to the prospect for real improvement in the deformity or its complete correction.

War-time Developments.

Marvelous advances in plastic surgery were made during the World war and in the post-war rehabilitation of the unfortunate victims of the terrible conflict. Men who had suffered the most ghastly wounds about the face and head were operated upon, sometimes repeatdly over a long period and made presentable, so that they need not be conscious of their appearance when they faced the world again. In work of that kind the surgeons take great pride. There was a very real need for it, and the possible results invariably made it worth while.

So, too, they are glad to undertake operations to correct deformities that are unsightly and that have a pressing effect upon the persons who are afflicted with them, and they can do almost miraculous things with the ears, nose, scars, eyelids, drooping cheeks, double chins, wrinkles, excessive fat around the abdomen or the feet and ankles, and similar visible defects.

They are reluctant, however, to take the cases of persons who are merely obsessed with the idea that something can and should be done to improve their looks. Most often these prospective patients are women who have seen their beauty fade away under the ravages of age, or as a result of over-eating, or injudicious diet, and who are willing to suffer any pain and discomfort and pay any fee to be restored to their pristine beauty and shapeliness. It is seldom that anything can be done for them by plastic surgery that they will find satisfactory, for they are in a mental state such that no reasonable improvement would satisfy them. Among such women the quacks and unscrupulous beauty surgeons finds easy marks.

When the slender figure became fashionable the plastic surgeons were besieged by obese women who were not content to attain slim contours through the slow process of diet and exercise, but who wanted the fat cut off. It can be done. Hospital records show that twenty, thirty, and even fifty pounds of skin and fat have been removed from the abdomens of women who were in a hurry to reduce. Similarly the double chin and too much fat around the neck can be made to yield to the knife.

But the best cure for over-weight is judicious dieting, and even that should be prescribed and directed by a physician.

THIEVES STRIP STOLEN AUTO

Abandoned Car Found in Lisbon Road.

Aptomobile thieves completely stripped the Overland sedan they stole from the garage of Frank Flugan, who resides on the Lincoln highway, just west of the Canton bridge out of Lisbon. Although the car has been located, Flugan will sustain a loss of probably $300.

The lock on the garage was pried off shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday night, and the car was permitted to drift out of the garage onto the Lincoln highway, and then allowed to drift down the grade to the Canton bridge.

The thieves apparently had a duplicate ignition key, and the car was started under its own power. It was driven to a cross road leading from the Wellsville-Lisbon road and one leading eastward toward the Lincoln highway. About one-half mile east on this road from the Wellsville road the car was run to the side of the road, and then stripped.

Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter located the car shortly after noon Friday, and had it returned to the Overland garage, Lisbon.

The five running disk wheels and tires and the spare disk wheel and tire were taken, and the car was found resting on the springs. In addition there was taken from the car one hub cap, motor meter and cap, one tire carrier, the horn, battery, two headlights rims and bulbs, the knob from the gear shift, speedometer, front mirror, windshield wiper.

The car was found parked along the road near the Barcus farm. After the car had been stripped, the plunder was loaded into another machine, which followed the stolen car to the cross road, and then the thieves turned the latter car around and traveled toward Wellsville.

After new wheels had been placed on the car, and the gas tank filled, it was driven to Lisbon under its own power.

FILES MOTION AGAINST APPEAL

Appellate Court Has No Jurisdiction, Fultz' Claim.

Chief of Police John H. Fultz, through his counsel, Attorneys W. A. O'Grady, Ben L. Bennett and Frank E. Grosshans, today filed a motion in appellate court asking that the court strike from the files the petition in error filed by the city of Wellsville in which City Solicitor S. C. Luccock appeals from the finding of common pleas court.

The motion reads:

"Now comes the defendant and moves the court to strike from the files the petition in error filed herein by the plaintiff in error, for the reason that the court is without jurisdiction in the premises."

Fultz, in his latest move, takes the stand that common pleas court has final jurisdiction in the case.

Appeals court, consisting of Judges John Pollock, J. W. Roberts and Louis T. Farr, probably will pass on the motion Monday. The court is sitting in Mahoning county all this month.

WHIPPET MAKES SPEED RECORD

Travels 121 Miles on Five Gallons of Superflash.

The 121-mile run from Mansfield to East Liverpool in two hours and 25 minutes, in which five gallons of Super-Flash gasoline were used, is the result of the speed test made today by the Whippet car, latest small machine to be introduced by the manufacturers of the Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles.

The record run was made with Charles Moore, mechanic at the E. L. Bradfield & Son garage, local Whippet dealers, at the wheel. The roads and streets between the two cities were wet, offering an additional handicap in the test.

The car left Mansfield at 10:15 a. m. and arrived in East Liverpool at 12:40 p. m., or an average of a little better than 50 miles an hour. The machine made the entire trip without a change in gear or a stop.

Five gallons of Super-Flash gas, furnished by the Oil Valley Oil company were used, or better than 24 miles to the gallon. Five quarts of Super-Flash motor oil, placed in the crank case of the car when it left East Liverpool for Mansfield yesterday, was drained from the machine upon its return here today, no oil having been used in the round trip which totalled 242 miles.

A parade through the downtown section of the city was held early this afternoon, at the end of the test. Willys-Knight, Overland and Whippet cars were in the procession.

The above shows the Whippet Cars assembled last week at the East End Service Station of the Ohio Valley Oil Company, after filling with Super-Flash Gasoline and Motor Oil, preparatory to starting the remarkable speed, power and high gear tests, the results of which are still fresh in the minds of the people of this community.

The accompaning news items clipped from the Review-Tribune of last Saturday tells the story of how Super-Flash Gasoline and Motor Oil again proved themselves to be supreme in their field.

When better gasoline and motor oil are made we will sell them.

COUPLE WED IN M. P. PARSONAGE

Miss Thelma Williamson Bride of Harold Miller.

Miss Thelma Lenora Williamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williamson, of Tenth street, was married to Harold Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, of Washington avenue, at noon today in the parsonage of the First Methodist Protestant church. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Momberg.

The young couple was attended by Miss Olive Williamson, sister of the bride, and Donald Miller, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was attractively attired in coral Romaine crepe.

Both young people are well known in the younger social circles of the city. The bride graduated from Wellsville high school with the class of 1923 and has been employed as bookkeeper at the Ohio Power company office in East Liverpool.

The bridegroom graduated from high school here in 1922 and is employed in the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad company at Midland, Pa.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, with only members of the immediate families attending.

FILES MOTION AGAINST APPEAL

Appellate Court Has No Jurisdiction, Fultz' Claim.

Chief of Police John H. Fultz, through his counsel, Attorneys W. A. O'Grady, Ben L. Bennett and Frank E. Grosshans, today filed a motion in appellate court asking that the court strike from the files the petition in error filed by the city of Wellsville in which City Solicitor S. C. Luccock appeals from the finding of common pleas court.

The motion reads:

"Now comes the defendant and moves the court to strike from the files the petition in error filed herein by the plaintiff in error, for the reason that the court is without jurisdiction in the premises."

Fultz, in his latest move, takes the stand that common pleas court has final jurisdiction in the case.

Appeals court, consisting of Judges John Pollock, J. W. Roberts and Louis T. Farr, probably will pass on the motion Monday. The court is sitting in Mahoning county all this month.

Mrs. John Goode Honored.

Mrs. Goode, prior to her marriage, was Miss Kathryn Smith. She received a number of gifts. Luncheon was served by Mrs. W. T. Gregory.

WHIPPET MAKES SPEED RECORD

The 121-mile run from Mansfield to East Liverpool in two hours and 25 minutes, in which five gallons of Super-Flash gasoline were used, is the result of the speed test made today by the Whippet car, latest small machine to be introduced by the manufacturers of the Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles.

The record run was made with Charles Moore, mechanic at the E. L. Bradfield & Son garage, local Whippet dealers, at the wheel. The roads and streets between the two cities were wet, offering an additional handicap in the test.

The car left Mansfield at 10:15 a. m. and arrived in East Liverpool at 12:40 p. m., or an average of a little better than 50 miles an hour. The machine made the entire trip without a change in gear or a stop.

Five gallons of Super-Flash gas, furnished by the Oil Valley Oil company were used, or better than 24 miles to the gallon. Five quarts of Super-Flash motor oil, placed in the crank case of the car when it left East Liverpool for Mansfield yesterday, was drained from the machine upon its return here today, no oil having been used in the round trip which totalled 242 miles.

A parade through the downtown section of the city was held early this afternoon, at the end of the test. Willys-Knight, Overland and Whippet cars were in the procession.

The above shows the Whippet Cars assembled last week at the East End Service Station of the Ohio Valley Oil Company, after filling with Super-Flash Gasoline and Motor Oil, preparatory to starting the remarkable speed, power and high gear tests, the results of which are still fresh in the minds of the people of this community.

The accompaning news items clipped from the Review-Tribune of last Saturday tells the story of how Super-Flash Gasoline and Motor Oil again proved themselves to be supreme in their field.

When better gasoline and motor oil are made we will sell them.

PENNOCK AND SHERDEL ON MOUND AS YANKEES AND CARDINALS CLASH

St. Louis Nationals, Denied Pennant Through 38 Years of Grim Adversity, Enter First Game of World Series and Portals of Sudden Riches.

FANS THRONG STADIUM DESPITE THREATENING AND SOMBRE CLOUDS

With Four Games Scheduled in Metropolis and Three in Mound City, Monetary Gain to Rival Clubs and Players Promises to Break All Records.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The man who discovered the Comstock lode probably spent countless nights shivering in [illegible] famished for want of an extra blanket and a [illegible] bread, but he found the golden lode, and all was well.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, the St. Louis Cardinals, denied a pennant through 38 years of grim adversity, were to enter the first game of the 1926 world series with the New York Yankees and no wanderer of the waste land ever stumbled upon a fairy cave with eyes of greater wonder and a heart more thoroughly gladdened.

After years of denial, self-imposed and otherwise, they suddenly found themselves on the threshhold of the finest honor within the gift of the great god, baseball, and of sudden riches beyond the dreams of every day avarice.

In spite of threatening, sombre clouds and a dank, oppressive atmosphere, a crowd of nearly 63,000 persons sat in at the death.

HOW TWO TEAMS LINE UP TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The probable line-up for the opening game of the world series this afternoon was as follows:

Yankees:—Combs, cf.; Koenig, ss.; Ruth, rf.; Meusel, lf.; Gehrig, 1b.; Lazzeri, 2b.; Dugan, 3b.; Severeid, c.; Pennock, p.

Cardinals:—Douthit, cf.; Southworth, rf.; Hornsby, 2b.; Bottomley, 1b.; L. Bell, 3b.; Hafey, lf.; O'Farrell, c.; Thevenow, ss.; Sherdel, p.

Umpires: Dineen, American league, at plate; O'Day, National league, at first base; Hildebrand, American league, at second base; Klem, National league, at third base.

Time of Game:—1:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard time).

Sun Emerges From Cloud.

With four games scheduled here and three in St. Louis the monetary gain to the rival clubs and players promised to break all world series records.

In brief the Cardinals and the Yankees, too, had stumbled upon the golden lode and even an unfavorable day could not deny them their due.

As a matter of fact the day became more favorable as it progressed and, at 11:45, the sun emerged from a cloud bank for the first time and the early addicts, hundreds of whom had preserved a "death watch" at the gates throughout the night, burst out in glad glee, as though they were witnessing the coming of the millennium.

Wether it was a favorable sign or not, the Yanks appearance was timed almost simultaneously with that of the sun and the boys seemed to like that, too. Prior to this momentous event, an infallible harbinger of their arrival was manifested.

Betting Near Even Money.

The old story of the engineer's dog who came loping down the tracks as a tip off to the arrival of the noon train was re-enacted here.

This time, however, it was the groundkeeper's dog. His was the first sign of life within a playing enclosure that soon was to sparkle with drama in the making.

The Yanks, being the home team, were generously received but nobody went maudlin. For one thing, Cardinal camp followers were there by the thousands, rushed to the scene by the crack trains from the middle west, and no true St. Louisan ever became unduly impressed by anything from New York.

For another, the magic of that long deferred Cardinal triumph in the National league had weaved its spell over the fans of the entire nation and there was little doubt that St. Louis was a sentimental favorite.

From a professional standpoint, they had been quoted for a week on the short end of odds at six to five but late arrivals from the middle west were likely to say it with greenbacks that will send the price to even money.

Ruth Versus Hornsby.

The incident of Rogers Hornsby, greatest natural hitter of all time and his victory in the first season of his managerial experience, also stirred the popular fancy and, when his mother died two days ago in far off Texas, natural regard turned to downright sympathy and affection.

The chances seemed good that Hornsby would draw a greater ovation from the more or less a neutral crowd, Babe Ruth notwithstanding. The Ruth versus Hornsby duel in fact, was to be one of the big moments of the series and Babe served due notice on his great rival by rushing to the plate to be the first Yankee in the batting cage.

NEW YANK FAN FIRST IN LINE FOR PLACE IN YANK STADIUM

Washington Colored Lad Will See Another Series.

TWO NAP IN CAR

Light Rain Forces Many to Desert Posts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Albert Aitken, of New York City, headed the line of fans waiting to buy tickets at the Yankee stadium this morning. Wrapped in an overcoat and carrying a large box of sandwiches, he arrived at 7 o'clock last evening.

Two hours later Aitken was joined by Nick Pitro and George Sulay, of Passaic, N. J. The fifth arrival was John Green, colored, Washington, D. C., who declared he never missed a world's series.

Andrew Katchmeere and Albert Kusma, Yankee rooters from Swoyersville, Pa., arrived at 10 p. m., in their closed car and slept in it, with others rooters parking on the running board.

By midnight 20 were in line as the night wore on the line lengthened rapidly. At 10 o'clock 38,000 unreserved seats were placed on sale.

Sell-Out Certain.

By 8 o'clock in the morning, the throng at the bleacher gates had swollen to several thousands, sleepy-eyed but vigilant. They sat huddled on soap boxes or stood in discomfort. The morning was cold and the threat of further rain was in the air but the fans were determined and stuck to their posts.

Their numbers might have been greater had it not been for a light rain that fell for 10 minutes at 5:30 o'clock, just after the first streaks of daylight had paled into morning. The rain prompted many of the less hardy to desert their posts. When the rain ceased, many returned to the lines and those who didn't had their places quickly taken by newcomers.

Barring a continuance of the threatening weather, it seemed inevitable that the park would be sold out well before game time at 1:30 o'clock.

Crack Trains Carry Rooters

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Western baseball fans, already swarming over the town by thousands for the first game of the world series, were to have their ranks considerably augmented by the arrival of several crack trains over the New York Central and Pennsylvania lines this morning. Four sections of the Twentieth Century, mostly filled with addicts, were to arrive at 9:40 o'clock. The Southwestern limited, headed here from St. Louis via Cincinnati, was due at 10 o'clock, and the Hudson River limited, also from Cincinnati, was due about the same time.

$5,000,000 BET TOTAL EXPECTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—With $1,000,000 already wagered and the possibility of $4,000,000 additional being bet in the event that the issue becomes close, the 1926 world series will go down into history as the biggest speculative contest of the post-season classic in the opinion expressed today by betting commissioners. One of these alone claimed he had handled $100,000 in bets today and this figure was trebled by a Wall street firm.

The Yankees had been steady favorites, at odds of 6 to 5 but the arrival of many fans today from St. Louis and other points in the middle west was expected to drive the quotations down to even money and take your choice.

MILL WORKER DIES OF BURNS IN EXPLOSION

Another Man Taken to Rochester General Hospital.

OIL STOVE BLAST

Coroner Harry McCarter Investigates Midland Accident.

Dr. Harry McCarter, Beaver Falls, Beaver county coroner, today returned a verdict of "death by burns, sustained in oil stove explosion," in the case of Felice Granita, 37, Midland mill worker, who died in the Rochester General hospital.

Vincenzo Chirumbolo, 26, 1105 Commerce street, Wellsville, who was also burned, is a patient in the hospital, but it is believed he will recover.

Both men were in bed in a residence at 363 Midland avenue when the explosion occurred. They were attended by Dr. J. A. Helfrich and later taken to the hospital. Granita was burned about the face, neck and body, but Chirumbolo's burns were less serious.

Body of the victim has been removed to the Dennis mortuary, Midland. Funeral services will be conducted in the Presentation church, Midland, at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning. Burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery at Beaver.

Bellaire Police Chief's Suspension Upheld at Hearing

BELLAIRE, O., Oct. 2.—His suspension sustained by the civil service commission, following a hearing that ended last night, Clarence E. The commission found Corbett guilty of disrespect to his superiors, possession of liquor and speeding.

500 KLANSMEN ARE AMBUSHED AND SPRAYED WITH BULLETS

Autos are Riddled in Attack at Groton, Mass.

TOWN IN FRENZY

Assailants, Numbering 150, Escape Before Police Arrive.

GROTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Five hundred Klansmen were ambushed and sprayed with shotgun and rifle bullets early today as they fled from a field here where a meeting had just concluded.

The ambuscade was planned in a strategic manner, with roads blockaded by felled trees, delaying the fleeing Klansmen so that their automobiles were riddled with shot.

In spite of the fact that nearly every machine was punctured with bullets, tires pierced and windshields shattered, not a man was hit so far as the police could learn.

The shooting threw the whole town into a frenzy. Homes were barricaded and tenants threw themselves on the floor to be safe from flying missiles.

It was estimated that 150 men were in the ambushing party and they all escaped before the arrival of the police.

This was the decision reached today in the court of oyer and terminer.

AKRON STUDENTS TRIP "FLEA HOP"

AKRON, O., Oct. 2. — Students of Central high school here today were tripping the "flea hop" with considerable animation and under official sanction.

Pigeons, roosting in the belfry, are thought to have infested the school with the small vermin.

All classes were dismissed while experts slew the pests.

BLAZING SHIP REACHES PORT AT CHARLESTON

Crew of 39 Wins 300-mile Race Against Fire.

CARGO IN FLAMES

Navy Yard Firemen Expected to Save Freighter.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 2.—With two heavy streams of water pouring on her burning cargo, the freighter New Britain, was in no danger of being destroyed by fire two hours after she had made port here this morning.

Navy yard fire fighters who met the flaming ship when she steamed into port, reported that the fire was under control and probably will be extinguished by afternoon.

Much praise was given the captain and the crew of 39 who stayed with the burning ship as she sped 300 miles to port and fought fire the entire distance.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 2. — The freighter New Britain, with fire in her hold since Thursday night, steamed into the port at Charleston, S. C., at 6:30 o'clock this morning where naval fire fighting trucks were waiting to extinguish her blaze, according to a wireless message received here from the coast guard cutter Seneca which accompanied her on the race for port.

Eight Persons Die When Fire Sweeps Louisiana Hotel

SIBLEY, La., Oct. 2.—Eight persons were believed to have been burned to death early today when the Hotel Sidney was burned to the ground.

Field Representative Says Money is Needed at Once.

With the need urgent, the American Red Cross, through Field Representative Theo E. Bock, of Washington, D. C., who has just completed a survey of the storm-swept sections of Columbiana county, and East Liverpool chapter officers today appealed for $700 more to meet needs of sufferers from the Sept. 23 tornado.

Other towns contribute.

Approximately $1,700 of a required $2,400 fund has been raised. Of this sum, East Liverpool has contributed a little more than $200, while $1,500 has been given by other towns.

Lisbon and the county chapter of the Red Cross have raised $1,100; Salineville and Wellsville, $100 each, while about $140 has been contributed by motorists and others who have visited the scenes of havoc.

The need for aid in Stop 47 district, seven miles north of here, where the tornado killed one child, injured four other persons and exacted thousands of dollars' property damage, is urgent. Much damage also resulted near Summitville and Millport and in the rural districts.

Money Needed at Once.

"I congratulate the East Liverpool Red Cross chapter, Mrs. Sarah Osterman, chairman; J. W. Moore, secretary, and W. E. Dunlap, treasurer, and Charles Costello and others at Lisbon upon the excellent manner in which relief funds have been raised," said Field Representative Bock. "The committee needs about $700 more, and East Liverpool residents are requested to raise $300 more by next Monday evening. The money is needed at once."

The relief funds will be expended for medical and hospital expenses and in purchasing furniture for persons whose homes were destroyed.

Contributions should be sent to W. E. Dunlap, cashier of the First National bank, who is treasurer of the Red Cross chapter.

RUTH AND HORNSBY PROVE AS HARD TO SEE AS COOLIDGE AND CAESAR, SAYS GIRL WRITER AT SERIES

By Katharine Brush.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—When I say that it has taken me all this day long to see two people in the city of New York it sounds as though one person must have been at the Battery and the other in the Bronx and as though I must have tried to walk to save taxi fare or something. As a matter of fact it took me all day long to see these two people because—well, look who they are:—Mr. Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals, and Mr. Babe Ruth of the Yanks.

If they had been Coolidge and Caesar, it couldn't have been much harder to see them. For today, of course, Mr. Hornsby and Mr. Ruth are the gentlemen of the hour, and some six million people had the same bright little idea about seeing them that I had.

But only a paltry few thousands of us made the grade. And under the circumstances those of us who did may perhaps be pardoned if we brag about it a little.

You will be spared the harrowing details. Journalistic ettiquette forbids my usurping space on the first page to complain about the earliness of the hour at which I arose to hunt my victims, and the utter futility of having arisen at such an hour (for it developed that the victims were busy rehearsing at the Yankee stadium and had no time for women, not even newspaper ones). Suffice it to say that it was 3 o'clock in the afternoon before I finally glimpsed Mr. Ruth—glimpsed is the word—and twenty minutes to six in the evening before my hand was shaken by the hard, strong, hand of Mr. Hornsby. I remember the hour and the moment well. My hand has not been the same since. My favorite hand, too.

I saw the great Bambino on Forty-Second street, which heaven knows is no place for an interview. He was wearing a cap and a blue suit and a broad grin trimmed with dimples, and at the moment when my eye first lit upon him he was busily engaged in trying to turn his enormous automobile around in the middle of a swarm of taxis and trolley cars. He did it, too. But that was only because the taxi-drivers and the trolley conductors recognized him, and thought perhaps on a day like this they might as well humor him.

The privacy enjoyed by Mr. Ruth in the city of Manhattan is simply wonderful. I didn't have time to count the customers who lined up to watch him get out of his car, but I wish I had a German mark, just one small German mark, for every man, woman and child and the mob that surrounded him as he crossed the pavement—a crowd that would have gladdened the heart of Mr. Tex Richard, who likes mobs probably better than any man living.

A visitor from Mars, unfamiliar with the hero-worshipping proclivities of the American public and plumped suddenly down into the midst of this scene would have demanded, bewilderedly, "what's it all about," and there would have been nothing to answer at all except that a young man skillful at causing a small ball and a yellow stick to make connections was negotiating a cement sidewalk. O tempore! O morses!

Nine word said to Mr. Ruth. They were: "How many home runs are you going to make?" Mr. Ruth said two words in reply. They were: "Search me." That was the interview.

The eyes that follow the Babe where ever he goes are merry ones. But the eyes that watch Rogers Hornsby are grave and shadowed with sympathy. The story of the valiant little Texan mother who tried to live until after her son's big job was done—and who failed — has touched the hearts of the world. Even the supposedly hard heart of the glittering world of New York. People whom Hornsby doesn't even know stop him to shake his hand and mumble condolences. And that is not so they can tell their friends they shook hands with Hornsby; it is "because they are genuinely sorry for him." He is a rather tragic figure, this stocky, clean cut manager of the Cardinals, living as he is at once the greatest and the saddest days of his life.

I saw him in the lobby of the Alamac hotel, where the St. Louis team and 13 of the players—think how unsuperstitious they must be to stand for that—are quartered during the games here. My talk with him was necessarily almost as brief as my talk with Ruth, for he was surrounded by newspaper men and trying to eat dinner to boot. But it was long enough for him to tell me that he knew—not thought, but knew—the Cards would win. And somehow the quiet conviction in the words made them seem a true prophecy.

Appeal for Fund To Save Old Mission Bell Tower Made

OCEANSIDE, Cal.—The campanile, or bell-tower of Mission San Luis Rey, erected by Fray Antonio Peyri in 1812, will be destroyed during the winter rainy season if $6,000 is not subscribed for its preservation, Franciscan fathers now occupying the mission declared in an appeal for funds.

On the morning of July 22 the bell-tower, said to be one of the most perfect examples of old mission architecture in California, collapsed, and since then the historic bells whose melodious tones have echoed throughout San Luis Rey valley for more than a century have been silent.

BOOK THREE—X.

The two walked along in silence, through sand that hugged their feet caressingly. And they came at length to a cottage called Paradise and there with one accord they stopped, smiling at one another. Yvonne sank down on the steps and took off and emptied her diminutive buckled slippers. Then she stood up. "I'm going to tell you now—my dear. But kiss me once, first, before I do—"

Her lips had never pressed harder against his. A sort of a desperate frenzy beat in their pressure. Jock thrilled to them, the while, curiously, he was reminded of a person about to do a difficult and dangerous thing, who drank deep for artificial courage.

She detached herself and sat down again, on the top step. And Jock, a little shaken, seated himself opposite, in the place she indicated. For a time neither of them said anything. Yvonne's glance roved out over the water, and the fingers that held her wrap about her were yellowish-white at the knuckles. Jock watched her . . . until, without warning, she brought her eyes to the line of his and began her narrative . . .

XI.

"I was born in a little manufacturing town in Ohio. I want you to try to visualize that town, Jock. Think of hills and smoke. Steep hills without any trees rearing up from the river, and smoke-colored clapboard houses tossed every which way down the sides of the hills. The only thing about it that was lovely was the river, and I could never bear to look at that much because my mother and father were drowned in it. When I was small. Out of a canoe . . .

"After that I lived with my aunt. She was good to me, according to her lights, but oh, she stifled me! She—well, there were hundreds of women in the town just like her, and when I was older I always thought of them as the boudoir-cap women. You know the type, don't you? Little women with little futile fussy minds. They were always worrying about the next meal, and the dust on the mantelpiece, and talking about each other's business. Oh, how I hated those women! They used to count on their fingers when any new bride was going to have a baby. . . . I hated the men, too. All the people in the town were like their houses. Self-sustained and drab and middle-class and little.

"Well, I lived there, and grew up, and went to high school, and had dates on the veranda on summer evenings, and did all the things small-town girls do. But inside I was seething. All the time. Wanting to get away from there, and live. I don't know how I knew enough to want to, but I did. Instinctively, I suppose, and then from reading. I read all the time. Gulped books. Novels and poetry — my aunt used to think it was the biggest joke, my reading poetry when I didn't have to—

"Anyway. When I was about 20—or maybe I was older than that, I've lived such eternities since, it's hard to remember—I fell in love. Oh, terrifically! I can't tell you . . ."

Her eyes, distant and misty, told Jock better than any words could have. "She loved somebody the way I love her," he thought, and knew a pang that was sympathy and jealousy in one.

"His name was Paul Kirk," she continued, "and he looked—a good deal as you look, Jock Hamill. That's why you used to tear my heart a little whenever I saw you, at first, before—before I began to care about you for your own sake. No, don't dear—don't interrupt me. Wait till I've said all I have to say.

"He had graduated from Boston Tech a couple of years before, an engineer, and he came to this town where I was living just for a few months, to do some experimental work at one of the factories. He boarded right next door. We were wild about one another from the very start. Kisses, and little notes, and all those foolish precious things. . . . My aunt didn't like it very well. She kept warning me against 'city fellows,' and so did everybody else. They resent anything from outside in towns like that. Bigoted . . .

"We planned to be married just as soon as Paul's work there was finished and he had settled in some permanent position somewhere else. He went away, and we wrote long letters full of exclamation points and words underlined—you know the kind of letters—and I began to keep a 'hope chest.' Hum. Imagine me hemming linen towels!

"Then the war.

"When I think of it now, I think of it in three stages. The first stage, when I said to myself that it was all right, the Armistice would come in just a few weeks now, I needn't worry. Then the second stage, when Paul was at training camp in Massachusetts, and I thought, 'He won't have to go. It'll be over before he can get there.' I kept telling myself that again and again—arguing with my fright.

"And then all of a sudden he wired me, and I took a train—oh, the slowest train, Jock Hamill, I can remember yet how it dragged along, all night and half the next day!—and we were married at four that afternoon in a little town near Camp Devens, where he'd been stationed." Yvonne smiled a smile without mirth, as though invisible strings were jerking her, mouth up at the corners. "So funny! Just a parody of a wedding. In a shabby little house, with a shabby little minister, and the minister's wife and a fat woman who came in wiping soapsuds off her big red arms with her apron, for witnesses. The place smelled of boiling cabbage, and flies buzzed against the window panes. I'll never forget the commotion they made. It seemed to fill my ears and my mind, until I couldn't think of anything else. Mercifully, perhaps. . . . but I'd have liked things different. I'd have liked satin, and lilies, and stained glass, and the low throb of music—something to treasure beautifully through all the years."

She fell silent, and her lids dropped down, shutting away from Jock the story in her eyes. After a little her lips took it on. "We had a few hours together. And that was all. He went away, to France, and I went home. And waited and waited and waited— . . . That was the third stage. Then I thought, "It'll be all right. God will send him back safe to me.' You see I believed in God in those days, Jock Hamill. I had—the most infinite faith.

"Well—God played with me, that was all. He didn't kill Paul in the war, but He killed him later. On the boat coming home—just a day or two away from my arms. Influenza. And they buried him at sea. . . . I didn't know, of course, and I was there to meet the ship that brought his battalion back. In Boston. So happy, and all in new clothes. Almost two years I'd waited. . . . Did you ever hear of the Mothers' Boat, Jock Hamill? When the big transports got in, sometimes they'd send a little tug down the harbor to meet them, with mothers, and sweethearts, and wives. I was on one of these little tugs. Early one morn. Foggy and wet and cold—in March, it was. You couldn't see the land, nor anything but gray fog and gray water all around. They took the tug boat out a way and then they let it drift, and everybody stood quiet and tense, staring all in one direction. . . . I don't know how long we were there. A piece of forever. . . . And then finally we began to hear a foghorn, and bye and bye we could see the faint gray outlines of the transport through the mist. And they started our engine up again, and we went toward it. And when we got nearer there was a new color out of the gray. Brown. Khaki. Great lines of it—I could hardly see them, I was crying so. For joy.

Call For $700 For Tornado Sufferers

The Red Cross today appealed for $700 more to meet urgent needs in the tornado-swept district at Stop 47, north of here, and in rural sections of Columbiana county.

The appeal was issued by Theo E. Bock, of Washington, D. C., field representative of the Great Mother of Mankind, who has completed a survey of the storm-stricken zones and listed victims who need money to meet medical and hospital bills and other requirements.

Thanks to the splendid work of units of the mercy organization in East Liverpool, Lisbon, Wellsville and other sub-divisions of the county, approximately $1,700 has been raised. Of this sum East Liverpool has contributed about $200; Lisbon, $1,100; Salineville, $100; Wellsville, $100, and the remainder has come from various sources.

East Liverpool chapter leaders joined with the field representative in asking district residents to contribute at least $300 more, while $400 additional will be sought from districts which already have given $1,500. And this money should be available not later than Monday.

Come on, East Liverpool! Write your checks and mail them today to W. E. Dunlap, cashier of the First National bank and treasurer of the Red Cross chapter.

Fit For The Job

A western newspaper man, dying in the early forties, is said by the colleagues who mourn his passing to have died plainly of overwork. For years he was the first man on the job in the morning, the last man off at at night. In times of stress he went without sleep, forgot to eat, gave himself, mind and body, to the cause of building up his paper. Now the paper is going well, but its creator has gone, far too soon.

The tempation to "stay by the stuff' when an infant business is to be fed and clothed and guided through its early years, is very great. There is a parental feeling that no sacrifice can be too keen.

Most business babies, like their human counterparts, need constant, all-embracing care in their early lives. But just as a human mother must be made to get her proper rest, if she is to stay by and give the care just as much needed, though different, in the later period, just so the father of an infant business ought to make a deliberate part of his day's work the keeping fit for the job.

The constant preachment of one family doctor to the young mother is: Take care of yourself; a mother in the hospital is a liability, not an asset; a mother in the cemetery is a total loss.

It takes shrewd management to get vacations, to get half-days off for outdoor fun and relaxation. Often the business parent is just a little too tired to think he can be spared. But if he were in the hospital? A day outdoors is so much cheaper! And periods of genuine rest are immensely more productive than ceaseless activity.

London Fog

The melancholy days are come. Here's Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, London, professional prophet of dark futures, saying the British Empire is all going to pieces.

The Canadian press seems to take the Jeremiac lamentations very calmly and cheerfully indeed. The reaction of the American pess seems admirably summed up in this statement of the Cleveland Times:

"The forces working to keep the British Empire together seem, to less gloomy observers, to be stronger than those that would tear it asunder. The motherland and the great dominions are economically complementary. The 'surplus' problems of all can be largely solved within the family; England finds a market for her industrial products and Canada and Australia for the fruits of their labor in the fields. It is difficult to see why the empire should not remain a happy, prosperous, solid entity as it has been for years."

Word has not yet come in from Australia and New Zealand, but it is difficult to imagine them losing any sleep over the imminent downfall of the Empire.

Dean Inge needs to get out of his London fogs, and to draw a few breaths of that clear and glowing air which north woods devotees call "Canoojun weather."

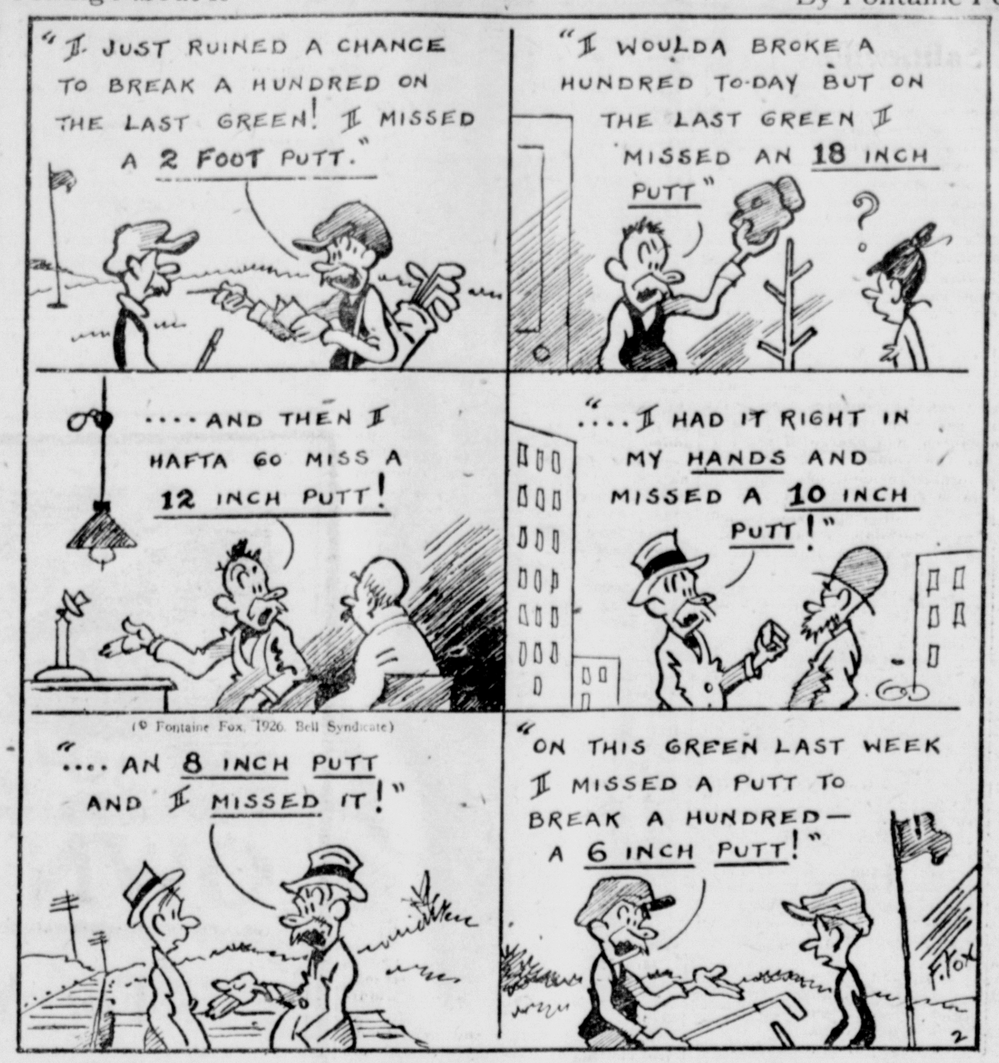

Automobile Deaths

There was a report, some weeks ago, that certain cities had reduced their motor mortality rates this year, and people began to hope that genuine improvement had begun. The department of commerce, however, says that while some communities have gained, the country as a whole has lost. In the 66 larger cities of the country, the annual death rate this year is about 18.9 per 100,000 people, while last year during the same period, the rate was 17.9.

The very great increase in number of automobiles in proportion to the population must be taken into consideration. The percentage may be larger per number of people, but it is probably smaller per 100,000 automobiles. Figured in any manner it is still far too high.

A Kansas man has made a hobby of collecting beetles, and has 100,000 specimens. What's the matter with grasshoppers?

Telling About It — By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The prince of today is the pauper of tomorrow and vice versa, along Broadway's meandering mile. An obscure cabaret performer of a few years ago has just purchased a seaside mansion with a front yard yacht dock and private beach.

It is filled with rare hangings, round-shouldered Persian vases and richly woven carpets. It was purchased from a comedian who was elevated for a fleeting moment and wound up in a sanitarium to begin a fight for health and a footlight "comeback."

The other day a policeman found a woman kneeling in prayer in the rain near Union Square. At a hospital she was identified as a leading lady of ten years ago. She had been of the laughing crowd that was still laughing and gay a few miles north.

Broadway is not consciously cruel—it often merely forgets. Life has been keyed up to the moment. Its dazzling lights have no effulgence for those eddied into backwaters. And as dancers drop out, the dance goes on.

Spenders scatter their gold with infinite indifference and often wind up with their outstretched tincups along side streets. It is not fiction that several Broadway beggars once had favorite tables at old Rector's and Delmonico's.

It was Diamond Jim Brady who said "Being a sucker is a lot of fun if you can afford it." But few can afford it, and thus Broadway careers so often become spectacular and brief. And those who can become so surfeited they usually move to the country.

Certain New York streets attract certain people, business and professions. Park Avenue attracts high-priced surgeons. William street is called Lawyers' Row. Maiden Lane is the great jewelry district. Nearly all the hardware stores are on Chambers street, and Duane street is filled with retail shoe stores. Most all the Syrians in New York live on Rector street.

Romance flowers quickly on this crowded little island. A sudden shower and a group was pocketed under a Broadway awning for ten minutes. He and she talked impersonally as strangers in a city will, and as the skies cleared she gave him her name and telephone number. Two days later they were married.

Not all of these hurry-up marriages end unhappily. A New Yorker who has acquired much wealth in building operations sat next to a strange lady at a matinee. She accepted his invitation to dinner, and the next day they were married. That was 19 years ago—and they are still happy.

It seems to me women drive more carefully than men in crowded centers. They are not given to rounding the corner on one wheel and they sound their horn at the least provocation. While there are few women driving taxis today, I am told that not one has ever had an accident.

I once attempted to pilot a car through heavy New York traffic. At the first corner I tangled up all around me in a snarl. A traffic officer called out: "What's the idea, young squirrel?" A discerning gentleman. He instantly spotted my nuttiness.

A druggist reports he increased his business 25 per cent by establishing a six-hour kodak film finishing service. The service itself was not profit-making, but the extra business came from those who bought other articles while getting their films.

My Favorite Stories

PROPER POINT OF VIEW

As a people, we have sufficient sense of humor to enable us to laugh at our own racial and national shortcomings. The average American enjoys nothing quite so much as he does a joke aimed at that occasional American who goes broad and gets drunk on Jingoism and spends his spare time in comparing European institutions with American institutions, always in favor of the latter.

But there is another side to the question. It is deemed fitting that this collection should include a story showing that once in a while a Britisher, from a different angle, exhibits these same characteristics which frequently mark the traveling Yankee.

As Julius Tannen tells me the story, there was an Englishman who made a tour of this continent. The tourist was a fit type and representative of a group of Englishman who think that nothing is worth while unless it is to be found on British soil, or at least under the protecting shadow of the Union Jack.

When he got back to New York after his swing across the land, an American asked him what he thought of our country.

"Oh, on the whole, rather tiresome," said the visitor.

"Didn't you see anything out of the ordinary?" asked the American.

"Cahn't say that I was especially impressed."

"Well," said the American, "you astonish me. We rather thought there were a few interesting sights over here. Did you, by any chance, see Niagara Falls?"

"Oh, yes. Spent half a day there."

"Well, isn't Niagara Falls worth looking at?"

"From the Canadian side—yes!"

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Plastic Surgery.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 2.—Did Jack Dempsey lose the world's heavyweight championship because he had had his nose remodeled? At the time the famous pugilist sought the surgeon's aid in transforming a battered proboscis into the straight and beautiful feature that is supposed to adorn a Greek god of a screen idol, the possibility of its affecting him as a fighter was wildly discussed. Predictions were made that Dempsey would never appear in the ring again, or that if he did it would be found that he was no longer of championship calibre.

The idea back of these predictions was that the mere desire to have his nose repaired indicated a radical change in Dempsey's temperament, and that having had the operation performed he would never be able to fight again without worrying over the possibility of getting his nose wrecked once more. No man can be a real scrapper who has begun to think about his manly beauty, said the psychologists; no man can put over the winning punch if he is consciously or unconsciously more concerned about preserving his own features than about battering his opponent's beyond recognition.

Whatever of merit there may have been in this theorizing, it is a fact that it took a long time to induce Dempsey to defend his title and that when he did enter the squared circle again he was anything but the fighter who defeated Willard, Carpenter, Firpo, and Gibbons. The first thing noted by the experts at the ringside was that Dempsey did not rush into the fray in his old berserker fashion, utterly reckless of what might happen to him in the way of punishment and intent only on pounding the other fellow to a pulp.

Then it was observed that his blows had lost much of their oldtime devastating effect, and that he was clinching frequently and covering up to avoid punishment. This last was something entirely foreign to Dempsey's former fighting methods.

It is also a fact that the first blow which Gene Tunney delivered was a wicked, raking jab at Dempsey's nose, and it landed where it was aimed. Thereafter the record of what Tunney was doing was largely a monotonous repetition of the terse tale of a right or left to the face. Apparently the challenger had the idea that the champion might be worrying about his features and that it was good fighting for him to do his utmost to see that Dempsey really had something to worry about in that connection. At any rate, when the fight was over Dempsey's face was a bruised, battered, swollen caricature of what it had been, and the nose was very much in need of repair again.

Effect Not All Psychological.

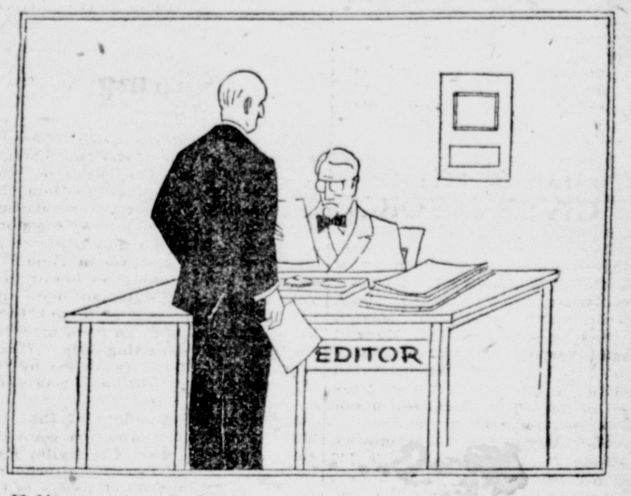

However, surgeons whose experience in such matters entitled them to speak with authority say that the effect of the operation on Dempsey's nose may have been not only psychological, but actually physically harmful, and the case is being cited to illustrate the very present danger attendant upon such experiments in plastic surgery. Women who are disposed to entrust themselves to so-called beauty surgeons or doctors for almost any kind of an operation—from removing wrinkles and lifting the face to eliminating a double chin or removing layers of fat around the waist—are being warned to go slow.

In short, the experts who know the most about surgery of that sort say that such operations should be undergone only in cases of necessity, and then only with the consent of a physician who will take into consideration every factor of the patient's health and physical condition. Needless to say, too, it is emphasized that such operations should be performed only by a real surgeon who is a specialist in that line.

The after effects of even the simplest of of such operations may be serious, it is said, and it has been found in numerous cases that the results were far from satisfactory, if not positively distressing, even though no harm was done.

Hence the real plastic surgeon is first of all a consultant. He advises as to the need of the operation and as to the likelihood of its effecting the desired end, and will not perform it unless he is convinced of its necessity and that it will be justifiably successful. For example, if a man has a pair of over-large ears that stick out from his head like those of the comic supplement Yellow Kid, he may want

Columbiana

The Columbiana high school football squad is practicing each afternoon after school under the direction of Coach Edgar Miller. The schedule this year is a short one, consisting of only six games, but more may be added later. The first game, that with Leetonia October 9, is probably the hardest of the season, as Leetonia has had one of the best teams in the county for the past three or four years.

Lee Bookwalter is captain of the squad this year, while George Barr is manager and Marcus Flickinger, assistant manager. Those who are the most promising for the various positions are: backs; Bookwalter, Lee Harrold, Fellers, D. Zellers, D. Detwiler, Hoffee, C. Gleckler and P. Zellers; center, C. Detwiler, Switzer and Peters; guards, W. Miller, McFadden, Hoover and G. Metz; tackles, Beck, Burt, Leonard and W. Orr; ends, Warmcastle, G. Miller, C. Zellers and J. Messersmith.

The schedule calls for three home games and the same number away from home. October 9—Leetonia, away; October 16—Canfield, home; October 23—Boardman, away; November 12—Salineville, away; November 19—Lisbon, home; November 25—E. Palestine, home.

Mrs. Maude Hoffman and daughter visited with friends at New Springfield Wednesday evening.

4 Major Motor Troubles—Banished!

Cleaning carbon~Grinding valves~~Excessive upkeep~periodic lay-ups~~the sleeve-valve-engined Willys-Knight gets rid of them all ~~~~~~

Abolish carbon troubles . . . Do away with valve-grinding . . . And you add years to the life and usefulness of your car . . .

In the same process, you save your share of the $420,000,000 tax which American owners must pay, this year, for the correction of damage done by these twin evils inseparable from all poppet-valve cars.

Carbon has no harmful effect on the Willys-Knight Great Six. Nor are there any valves to grind. Its sleeve-valve engine-construction, patented exclusive—does away with both. . .

As a matter of fact, the presence of carbon in this car is a desirable condition. It serves to seal compression—to prevent power-waste. Instead of hampering and harming, and putting you to the endless inconvenience and expense of removing it, carbon literally helps the Knight engine to perform.

Willys-Knight Great Six prices from $1750 to $2495; f.o.b. factory. Prices and specifications subject to change without notice. The Willys Finance Plan offers unusually attractive credit terms. Willys Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio. Willys-Overland Sales Co. Ltd., Toronto, Canada.

F. A. Hoiles, of Alliance, President of New Corporation.

The Darlington Fire Proofing company has been incorporated under the laws of Ohio with a capital stock of $400,000, and announcedtoday plans for the erection of a plant across the state line in Pennsylvania, about two miles southeast of East Palestine.

At a meeting of the incorporators, the following officers were elected: President, F. A. Hoiles, Alliance; vice-president and general manager, J. E. White, Alliance; secreary, W. B. Carson, Pittsburgh; treasurer, F. A. Hoiles. The directors are W. H. Reed, New York; N. B. Billingsley, Lisbon; Alice J. Hoiles, E. L. Guthrie and Arthur J. Hoiles, Alliance.

The company has taken over a 700-acre tract of coal and fire clay lands between Darlington and East Palestine, where it will carry on operations. The proposed plant will be 1,322 feet in length and will be located on the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western railroad. The factory will offer employment to 100 or 125 men.

In addition to the coal and clay lands purchased outright, the company has signed a contract with the White Clay Mine company for a fire clay supply giving the concern a 200-year supply of raw materials. Three hundred tons of fire-proofing materials will be produced daily by the plant.

Attorney L. M. Kyes, East Palestine, was largely instrumental in landing the new industry. The new plant will be the sixth large clay product plant to be located in the East Palestine-Darlington district.

SAFETY TALKS ARE GIVEN IN HIGH SCHOOL

Accident Prevention Program Conducted by Railroad Men.

MAYOR SPEAKS

Flying Squadron Will go to Parochial School Monday.

Accident prevention was discussed at a special chapel exercise in the high school auditorium yesterday afternoon, in connection with the safety program conducted in East Liverpool this week by representatives of the C. & P. railroad.

Speakers at the chapel exercises were Probate Judge Lodge Riddle, Lisbon, Mayor Ralph C. Benedum and Douglass K. Leyda, Wellsville, Pennsylvania railroad detective. Dangers of playing about railroad tracks and of traversing tracks at places other than public crossings were cited. Mayor Benedum stressed safety on the streets, urging children to observe traffic light signals.

During the week every public school building in East Liverpool was visited, city, school and probate court officials co-operating with the railroad representatives in the campaign. The speakers will visit the St. Aloysius parochial school next week. Three Salineville schools were visited by Captain A. T. Worthington, Cleveland, chief of railroad detectives; Probate Officer John McShane, Judge Riddle and Detective Leyda Thursday. The campaign will be conducted in Wellsville during the week of Oct. 11.

The campaign of the C. & P. division takes in all territory between Cleveland and Rochester, Pa., and as far down the river as Marietta.

Many railroad accidents are preventable and the heavy loss of life can be reduced if care is exercised, railroad officials claim. Figures compiled by the safety section of the American Railway Association, show that 1,501 accidents occurred during 1923; 1,313 in 1924 and 1,301 in 1925. By means of this campaign of education it is hoped to reduce these accidents by at least 35 per cent before the end of 1930.

LIME CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

More Than 9,000 Tons Used by Farmers of State.

The lime campaign that has been in progress in twenty-six counties of West Virginia during the past two end of the tour of the Soil Improvement Special and the assembling of months reached its climax with the the orders for liming materials, which amounted to more than nine thousand tons.

Many experiments and demonstration with lime which have been conducted at the West Virginia, Ohio, and other experiment stations and on numerous farms in this state show conclusively that each ton of limestone or its equivalent in other forms when properly used gives additional crop returns worth more than $16.00 and more than $10.00 net return to the user.

On this basis the nine thousand tons will result in an addition net income of $90,000 or more for West Virginia farmers. In view of the present low farm incomes, and the need for economy in expenditure, these figures are very significent, says D. R. Dodd, extension agronomy specialist of the West Virginia College of Agriculture, and indicate a possibility of greatly increased returns through wise investment.

The systematic use of lime has just begun in West Virginia. Mr. Dodd states, and probably five times the present amount used annually would more nearly represent the most profitable practice.

Home Owners

The value of your home is based upon the prosperity of EAST LIVERPOOL. That is a fact, is it not? And an increase in East Liverpool's prosperity would be reflected in the value of your home. That too is a fact, isn't it? You would like to see your real estate increase in value, wouldn't you? Here is a way you can help get that increased valuation. By spending your dollars with East Liverpool merchants, THE HOME TOWN MERCHANT, you increase the posperity of East Liverpool. Be cause it is the profit dollar that builds up this or any other community. Dollars spent with home merchants continue to circulate at home and it is the amount of money in circulation in this community that determines its prosperity.

Every dollar you spend away or send away from East Liverpool make some other community more prosperous and East Liverpool less prosperous, and by so spending your money you are, in fact, helping to reduce the value of the very home in which you live. The home you hoped would increase in value and show you a profit on your investment. Practically everything you need can be bought in East Liverpool at a reasonable price. You could really afford to pay a little more in the Home Town, but you do not have to, for East Liverpool Merchants meet competition. In fact, investigation shows that much merchandise can be bought in East Liverpool at a lower price than in larger cities.

Why not adopt the policy of making your dollar work for you even after you spend it? When you spend it in a manner to increase the prosperity of East Liverpool it continues to work for you. It will increase the value of your home.

Let us all put into action this idea of cooperation for a bigger and better East Liverpool. It can be done, and the doing will pay big dividends to every property owner in this city.

REMEMBER — THE DOLLARS YOU SPEND AT HOME RETURN TO YOU.

Trade Unionism

In this period of world reconstruction or organization and in which we are now struggling, and the mad rush for the acquiring and holding of vast fortunes, no matter how much suffering is caused, brings us face to face with the fact that the organization of the working class is an absolute necessity for self preservation, and is the only means and hope for the laboring class, and the securing of the members of labor unions the fruits of their labor, thus enabling them to maintain themselves, families and homes properly.

Trade Unionism is the philosophy of human justice in the world of industry. Its creed is the Golden Rule, and its doctrine finds millions of adherents, because it begins with elementary principles by pointing to the way of the material solution of differences.

The philosophy of trade unionism is disseminated most effectively through the educational campaign so untiringly waged by those individuals and organizations in the ranks of organized labor who have the love for humanity at heart, and their march is onward and forward, propelled by the irresistible power of enlightened conscience.

The noble philosophy of trade unionism has, through its unswerving purpose permanently established its boundaries and cannot and will not be appropriated to any party or platform. The doctrines that have given a newer and brighter outlook on life to the millions of toilers will not be distorted by ambitious seekers of self-glorification.

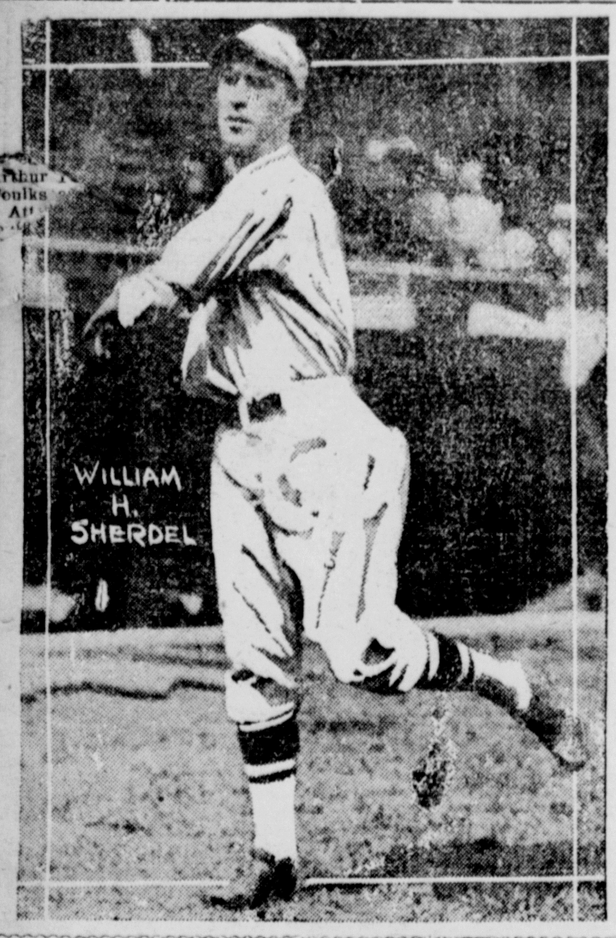

Without organized labor and the capital organized as it is, the condition of the workers would soon degenerate into industrial slavery. It would have become an inevitable consequence of competition. Industrial slavery means debasement of the people and the national decline.

Let labor be thoroughly organized, then let wages and conditions of labor be fixed by collective bargaining between representatives of the two interests, in the same manner as busjness between two governments is adjusted by their diplomatic agents.

Capital organizes, and labor, for its own protection, must also organize. Every man has a right to the result of his labor, and his right must be defended by all that is sound in industrial economy. The labor issue involves the whole scheme of competition, which, in turn, includes self interest and selfishness. The combination of labor is an expedient pending the time when the whole industrial system will be established on the line of the Golden Rule.

Yankees Slight Favorite As Series Opens In New York

Sherdel For Cards

Hugmen Given Edge In Opener on Theory Pennock Will Pitch

Capacity Crowd Throngs Stadium; Speculators Offer Three-game Series Tickets, Originally Priced at $16.50, for $100 and More; Fans Wait Through Night for Bleacher Seats.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The proverbs make due note of the fact that the worm eventually turned, but they fail to say whether he snarled, bit, hissed in a most unsportsmanlike manner or merely bowed and passed on. The proverbs really needed a good rewrite man. Shakespeare couldn't have been a dramatist without a climax and Santa Claus could never have had whiskers without a chin.

The climax and the chin whisker to the drama of the turning worm will be supplied this afternoon at the Yankee stadium with 63,000 persons inside and the whole world listening at the gates. The occasion will be the opening game of the 1926 world series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals and, by nightfall, all will be afforded a fairly adequate idea of whether the worm turned just to look at its shoulder blades or to lash out with malignant hate, born of hope deferred and long frustrated.

Anyone who has known the Cardinals in courageous though seemingly inevitable defeat for thirty-eight years cannot accept the simile of the worm without reservations. They were more like the rattler, game to the last but destined for extinction.

First In 38 Years.

Yet the fact remains that, between 1888 and 1925, St. Louis was denied a flag winner and that, in 1926, the Cardinals turned against the teams that had fought them off in the past and in one of the finest races in National League history, they won the pennant in the final week of the season. The Tiger fights to the death and deserves no need for credit for it. But the turning worm is a downright hero.

That is the reason a capacity crowd will run riot through the far reaches of the stadium this afternoon, its numbers limited only by the fact that the walls are made of concrete and not rubber. That is the reason speculators are lining the sidewalks this morning, disposing of three-game tickets, originally priced at $16.50, for $100 or more.

That is the reason, also, that diehards, if at all, waited through the still watches of the night, buoyed up by coffee and the prospect of a great spectacle, for the general admission gates to open at 10 o'clock. It was reason enough that a St. Louis team was in a modern world's series for the first time.

Yanks at 6 to 5.

And, just to show that they find it hard to believe even now, the baseball public made the Yankees a series favorite at odds of 6 to 5, although many critics seemed convinced that the New York outfit lacked the Cards' general balance and class. The Yanks also were favored at 13 to 10 to win the opening game, largely on the supposition that Herb Pennock was due to pitch. The boys may yet have to second-guess this one.

In fact, it was generally conceded this morning that Miller Huggins was wavering between Pennock and Urban Shocker as his nominee, with the chances favoring the latter. He made a most commendable record against the Cards in the St. Louis city series, but those were the old Cards and these are the new.

The Cardinal pitcher, it was announced more or less sub-rosa last night, will be Bill Sherdel, the cross-firing, slow-balling left hander. The Yanks have no particular esteem for that type of hombre, especially Ruth, Meusel, Gehrig and the other free swingers. They seem to have a bad habit of swinging at the second one before the slow-baller is finished with his first, a rather reprehensible proceeding. Grover Cleveland Alexander, the elder, had been the original choice of the intelligents'a but Rogers Hornsby, it seems, prefers to do his own picking.

Alex or Rhem Next.

Alexander may get the assignment for the second game tomorrow, although the writer was given to understand that the gentleman has lost favor with Hornsby. If this be the case, Flint Rhem may be the man or it may be Jesse Haines, Reinhart, Herman, Bell, Sothoron or Keen. The chances were, however, that either Alexander or Rhem would appear in either of the first two games, in spite of the fact that the Yankees like their pitchers fast and their base hits lengthy. Pennock and Shocker were almost certain to pitch the first two games here for the Yanks.

Much depended on what happened in the first game and a general shifting of forces, to say nothing of the gambling odds, would result if the Cards won the premiere of the series. The writer regards them as an excellent bet, not only for this game but the series as well.

No club ever went anywhere in a world's series with a five-thumbed shortstop. The Yankees appeared to have one in Mark Koenig, who became famous this year for kicking them away at very difficult angles. No club ever went far in this series, either, without first class catchers. Both Collins and Severeid, of the Yankees, hardly could be held in this light.

Mrs. J. H. Stetson and Mrs. Wright Goss to Clash for Golf Title

MERION CRICKET CLUB, SOUTH ARDMORE, Pa., Oct. 2.—Mrs. J. H. Stetson, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Wright Goss, of New York, met today in the finals of the women's golf championship.

Mrs. Stetson is the eastern champion, a title won last June in Philadelphia. Her golf has improved rapidly in the last two years. Her game is not a long one but it is straight and usually sure. Mrs. Stetson is supposed to be the better player over the thirty-six hole route.

Mrs. Goss has played fine golf all week, not once going over 84 and may win the title if she can keep up this pace.

FOOTBALL IN FULL SWAY

Huggins-Hornsby Confident Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Both Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, and Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinals' pilot, were confident of victory today as their teams met in the opening world's series game.

"I am confident the Yankees will win," Huggins said. "The week's rest has restored our morale and that's all we need. My sluggers and pitchers will do the rest."

"The Cardinals will win because our spirit is better than the Yankees' and we have the harder punch," declared Hornsby. "We showed better form at the end of the season than the Yanks."

BADGERS FACE STIFF SCHEDULE

Coach Little Refuses to Make Any Predictions.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 2.—With one of the stiffest schedules ever outlined for Badger eleven confronting his gridiron wards, Head Coach George Little discreetly refrains from venturing any predictions so far as his 1926 Cardinal entry is concerned. But he would have the other folks of the Western conference pay respectful heed when he broadcasts a few words and phrases relative to the outlook at Camp Randall Field.

"I am making no promise," declared the Badger strategist, now launching his second season in command here, "for I am mindful of the obstacles that lie ahead of Wisconsin. Both Michigan and Minnesota will send powerful teams upon the field and each lineup will be heavily stocked with veterans. However, I'll have a fighting machine and none of our opponents can be sure of victory until the games are over.

"One of my hardest tasks will be that of keeping the Wisconsin team keyed up all season, inasmuch as there are no open dates on our schedule, which calls for six consecutive games with Big Ten opponents after two preliminary contests. It is going to be quite a job pointing for a fierce struggle each week-end.

"Wisconsin has turned out splendid material this year and if we can find 30 men, good and true, and able to stand the pace, I'll be satisfied."

Heavy Games.

Coach Little spoke a considerable mouthful, too, when he alluded to the ponderous program prescribed for his huskies. After engaging Cornell college on October 2 and Kansas on October 9, in the so-called warm-up battles, the Badgers will be in the midst of their conference melee, opposing on succeeding Saturdays the Boilermakers of Purdue, Pat Page's squad, Minnesota; Michigan, Iowa and Chicago.

Chances are that, were it possible, Little would have taken on Ohio State and Northwestern turning down the first two dates but sometimes coaches have their troubles adjusting a satisfactory schedule.

Of the 74 candidates who responded to the first official practice call, 14 are letter men, five of them backs, two ends, and seven linemen. The losses from last season include Capt. Polaski, Nelson Slipke, Leo Harmon, Harry McAndrews, Long, McCormick, Sauger and Blackman.

Five veteran backs are in the harness in the proceedings which are staged daily at Camp Randall. Incidentally, from now on, the Badgers will be limited to two hours football rehearsal each afternoon, under the new ruling of the conference powers.

Quintet of Backs.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

During the first half of the back swing, and at the point in the back swing where the toe of the club points directly upward, the wrists and the grip should be slightly firm. Right at this point, when the club is elevated to the top, is where the swing is lost to many golfers. From this point upward they do two things to upset the rhythm. They take the club up too quickly and they loosen the grip. The grip loosens because of the great speed of the clubhead going up, since the player would be pulled off his feet if he didn't let go of the club and give it some slack in his wrists to absorb its stop. The reverse of this must apply. Keep the club action slow and to a natural pace and let the grip tighten some as you elevate the club. Then you can whip it back effectively.

BIG TEN TEAMS GO INTO ACTION

Big Three, Army and Navy Also Making Debut.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The 1926 football season will make its third and final debut today when the Army and Navy elevens and the members of the Big Ten and the Big Three swing into action.

Harvard, playing its first game under the regime of Arnold Horween, former Crimson star, will tackle Geneva, which gave Cornell a hard fight last week. Yale will try out the huddle system against Boston University and Princeton will meet Amherst, a no mean antagonist.

The Army eleven, now coached by "Biff" Jones, faces a hardy foe in Detroit University and the Navy, also working under a new coach, Billingram, will have no picnic against Purdue.

An intersectional clash between Chicago and Florida will take place in Chicago. Michigan will entertain the Oklahoma Aggies and Indiana takes on De Pauw. Other games in this section are Illinois vs. Coe, Iowa vs. Greeley, Wisconsin vs. Cornell college, Ohio State vs. Wittenberg, Minnesota vs. North Dakota and Nebraska vs. Drake. Notre Dame has a fairly easy opponent in Beloit.

The outstanding contests in the south are the Tennessee-North Carolina, Georgia Tech-V. M. I., South Carolina-Maryland and Tulane-Missouri clashes.

In the east, Dartmouth undoubtedly will slaughter little Hobart and Pennsylvania should win from Johns Hopkins. Other eastern games are Cornell vs. Niagara, Syracuse vs. Vermont, Colgate vs. Clarkson, Penn State vs. Lebanon Valley, Brown vs. Colby, St. Johns vs. Holy Cross, Rutgers vs. Ursinus, Columbia vs Union, and New York University vs. Allegheny.

FACE TEST IN AKRON GAME

Highs Take on Hard Assignment Today.

Coach George Kidder's Blue and White eleven will face its first big test of the season this afternoon at Columbian park in the game with the Akron East team. The contest was scheduled to get under way at 3:30 o'clock.

The locals go into the contest with a backfield weakened to a certain extent by the absence of Fullback Holmes who injured a knee in last Saturday's game. Coach Kidder expects to use Bromby, Fullerton, Walt Smith and Lincoln in the backfield.

Showers May Hit Inaugural Tilt

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Cloudy weather prevailed in New York this morning, with possible showers predicted for this afternoon when the Yankees clash with the St. Louis Cardinals in the first world's series game. The official forecast for this afternoon was "partly cloudy, with rising temperature and possibly thunder showers."

BISONS OPEN AT WESLEYAN

BETHANY, W. Va., Oct. 2.—Highly elated over the form shown so far this year by most every man on the Bethany college football squad, Coach Nuss is now enjoying a sigh of relief, even though George Fickley, of Crafton, Pa., and Jack Hamill, of Wheeling, W. Va., star linemen, will be unable to participate in the Bisons' opening engagement today against West Virginia Wesleyan. It is a severe blow to the Bisons leader to have two star players on the injured list after their fine work so far, but the work of Bell, Brandon, Bates and Burwell, who are being tried in the varsity line, to replace these boys, has been of a nature that is highly commendable.

In the limelight of the afternoon's scrimmage was the work of Bud Keating, Pittsburgh boy, and Roe, Warwood high star, who is making a strong bid for a job in the varsity backfield. Keating, who has been working at left end on the second eleven, showed fine defensive play, and he will probably break into the game Saturday as understudy to Hamill, Hagberg or Segiel.

In the case of Roe, whose work has featured practically every scrimmage, Coach Russ has a lad who can run the ball, forward pass, and still play a good defensive game. No doubt Roe will be found in the game Saturday.

Another varsity man from whom big things are expected is "Hump" Neel, who plays the halfback post opposite Stobbs. Neel was a demon on the Bethany offense two years ago, and by the looks of things this year, Neel will be in the lineup to even better his wonderful record of 1924, in which year was included two long runs for touchdowns through the entire Washington-Jefferson backfield.

In recent practice sessions, Kinsey, Neel, Carey and Roe formed the backfield of the team representing the varsity with Hagberg and Hamill playing the wings. The remaining personnel of the line was Burwell, Stewart, Tinson, Brandon and Price, Gilgan, Fiers, Stobbs, Baker and Imel saw service before the scrimmage was concluded, in Coach Nuss' latest plan of weeding out the choice men.

On the second eleven were Bender, Keating and the Behm brothers in the backfield, Segiel and Shives at the ends—and Bates, Brock, Stonestreet, Rush and Bell, in the line. This idea of the Bison mentor in picking out his varsity material has proved to be a tactful move, as the work of the majority of the men trying for berths has been brought in practically every department of play.

Much is expected of Dale Fiers, Florida lad, and one of last year's main cogs in the line, who is this year playing the fullback position. Although not the fastest man in the backfield, Fiers possesses enough fight and spirit to rip through enemy lines almost at will, providing he keeps up the steady pace which has characterized his pre-season performances.

Saints In Good Shape.

CINCINNATI.—On the eve of the "rubber" game with Transylvania college here the St. Xavier college football squad appeared in excellent condition. Coach Meyer said he planned to start eight letter men in the lineup.

Army-Navy Auction Brings In $125,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Auction sale of box seats for the Army-Navy football game, to be played at Soldiers' Memorial field here Nov. 27, netted $125,000, Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, announced today.

The sale was held yesterday in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. During the five hours of eager bidding, 470 boxes, averaging six seats, were sold. Chicago "Four Hundred" were there en masse.

Society attended the sale in the spirit of a lark. They died good-natured but earnest. The choice boxes were those nearest the one reserved for President Coolidge and his party.

But fortune mocked those who bid with this in view. Just as the sale was closing, a telgraphic dispatch from Washington stated that President Coolidge would not attend.

The disappointment occasioned by this news was tempered somewhat by Washington dispatches stating that Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, together with their official parties, would be among those present."

F. Frank Croissant, prominent real estate operator and turfman, outbid the field for the first box. It was box No. 1, on the Army side, "just behind the president." Mr. Croissant paid $2,500 for these six seats.

THORPE RETURNS TO CANTON TEAM

CANTON, Oct. 2.—Jim Thorpe, greatest of them all, has returned to the Bulldogs, his first professional "love," and probably will be seen in action Sunday afternoon at Lakeside stadiums against the Louisville Colonels.

Thorpe likely will be used at fullback, to punch the line, dividing the burden with Pete Calac, another "redskin" and a pal of Thorpe's during the "old days" here and at Carlisle. Thorpe now is heavier than he was when he played with Dogs before.

Shifts His Ends.

Will Clash in Mud.

OBERLIN — Oberlin and Marietta will play on a muddy gridiron, a deluge approaching cloudburst proportions having drenched the field as Coach Maceachron's charges took their final light workout yesterday. It is not certain whether Capt. Zwick will start at center or guard, but the rest of the lineup will be the same as last week.

Rio Grande at Athens.

ATHENS — Ohio university will open its gridiron campaign against Rio Grande without the services of Capt. Wise, end; Duncan, guard; Shafery, center, and Sweeney, quarterback; all veterans. They are all nursing injuries. Light signal practice was held yesterday. Ohio's supporters are hoping for a repetition of last year's 19-3 victory.

Bearcats Are Confident.

CINCINNATI — A gigantic "pep" meeting of the entire student body featured the brief practice session yesterday of the University of Cincinnati Bearcats who play Otterbein today. More interest in football is being manifested here this fall than in any past season.

Rain Dampens Zipper Hopes.

AKRON.—Rain and prospect of more today dampened the hopes the Zippers have of beating Case here in the Akron-Case game. Coach Babcock declared he will use the same team which defeated Defiance last week. In past year, Case has won five games against Akron, lost four and tied three.

Wooster Line Weakened.

WOOSTER.—Wooster goes into its opening game of the season with two tackles on the bench with injuries. Lippert is out with a twisted knee and Stoll will be unable to start because of cuts received outside of practice. Young and Blough this afternoon practiced kicking. The opener will be with Ashland.

them reduced in size and pinned back, so to speak. There is no real need for the operation, for large, floppy ears function just as well as the most pulchritudinous ones, but if the deformity is so pronounced as to have a mental effect upon the man, the surgeon may agree that an operation is justified. Then if he finds that it will likely bring about worth while results he will undertake it.

The beauty surgeon, on the other hand, as a rule works primarily on a commercial basis. He will operate on any set of ears that the wearer regards as unsatisfactory, and with little regard to the prospect for real improvement in the deformity or its complete correction.

War-time Developments.

Marvelous advances in plastic surgery were made during the World war and in the post-war rehabilitation of the unfortunate victims of the terrible conflict. Men who had suffered the most ghastly wounds about the face and head were operated upon, sometimes repeatdly over a long period and made presentable, so that they need not be conscious of their appearance when they faced the world again. In work of that kind the surgeons take great pride. There was a very real need for it, and the possible results invariably made it worth while.

So, too, they are glad to undertake operations to correct deformities that are unsightly and that have a pressing effect upon the persons who are afflicted with them, and they can do almost miraculous things with the ears, nose, scars, eyelids, drooping cheeks, double chins, wrinkles, excessive fat around the abdomen or the feet and ankles, and similar visible defects.

They are reluctant, however, to take the cases of persons who are merely obsessed with the idea that something can and should be done to improve their looks. Most often these prospective patients are women who have seen their beauty fade away under the ravages of age, or as a result of over-eating, or injudicious diet, and who are willing to suffer any pain and discomfort and pay any fee to be restored to their pristine beauty and shapeliness. It is seldom that anything can be done for them by plastic surgery that they will find satisfactory, for they are in a mental state such that no reasonable improvement would satisfy them. Among such women the quacks and unscrupulous beauty surgeons finds easy marks.

When the slender figure became fashionable the plastic surgeons were besieged by obese women who were not content to attain slim contours through the slow process of diet and exercise, but who wanted the fat cut off. It can be done. Hospital records show that twenty, thirty, and even fifty pounds of skin and fat have been removed from the abdomens of women who were in a hurry to reduce. Similarly the double chin and too much fat around the neck can be made to yield to the knife.

But the best cure for over-weight is judicious dieting, and even that should be prescribed and directed by a physician.

THIEVES STRIP STOLEN AUTO

Abandoned Car Found in Lisbon Road.

Aptomobile thieves completely stripped the Overland sedan they stole from the garage of Frank Flugan, who resides on the Lincoln highway, just west of the Canton bridge out of Lisbon. Although the car has been located, Flugan will sustain a loss of probably $300.

The lock on the garage was pried off shortly after 10 o'clock Thursday night, and the car was permitted to drift out of the garage onto the Lincoln highway, and then allowed to drift down the grade to the Canton bridge.

The thieves apparently had a duplicate ignition key, and the car was started under its own power. It was driven to a cross road leading from the Wellsville-Lisbon road and one leading eastward toward the Lincoln highway. About one-half mile east on this road from the Wellsville road the car was run to the side of the road, and then stripped.

Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter located the car shortly after noon Friday, and had it returned to the Overland garage, Lisbon.

The five running disk wheels and tires and the spare disk wheel and tire were taken, and the car was found resting on the springs. In addition there was taken from the car one hub cap, motor meter and cap, one tire carrier, the horn, battery, two headlights rims and bulbs, the knob from the gear shift, speedometer, front mirror, windshield wiper.

The car was found parked along the road near the Barcus farm. After the car had been stripped, the plunder was loaded into another machine, which followed the stolen car to the cross road, and then the thieves turned the latter car around and traveled toward Wellsville.

After new wheels had been placed on the car, and the gas tank filled, it was driven to Lisbon under its own power.

FILES MOTION AGAINST APPEAL

Appellate Court Has No Jurisdiction, Fultz' Claim.

Chief of Police John H. Fultz, through his counsel, Attorneys W. A. O'Grady, Ben L. Bennett and Frank E. Grosshans, today filed a motion in appellate court asking that the court strike from the files the petition in error filed by the city of Wellsville in which City Solicitor S. C. Luccock appeals from the finding of common pleas court.

The motion reads:

"Now comes the defendant and moves the court to strike from the files the petition in error filed herein by the plaintiff in error, for the reason that the court is without jurisdiction in the premises."

Fultz, in his latest move, takes the stand that common pleas court has final jurisdiction in the case.

Appeals court, consisting of Judges John Pollock, J. W. Roberts and Louis T. Farr, probably will pass on the motion Monday. The court is sitting in Mahoning county all this month.

Mrs. John Goode Honored.

Mrs. Goode, prior to her marriage, was Miss Kathryn Smith. She received a number of gifts. Luncheon was served by Mrs. W. T. Gregory.

The above shows the Whippet Cars assembled last week at the East End Service Station of the Ohio Valley Oil Company, after filling with Super-Flash Gasoline and Motor Oil, preparatory to starting the remarkable speed, power and high gear tests, the results of which are still fresh in the minds of the people of this community.

The accompaning news items clipped from the Review-Tribune of last Saturday tells the story of how Super-Flash Gasoline and Motor Oil again proved themselves to be supreme in their field.

When better gasoline and motor oil are made we will sell them.

THE OHIO VALLEY OIL COMPANY

WHIPPET MAKES SPEED RECORD

The 121-mile run from Mansfield to East Liverpool in two hours and 25 minutes, in which five gallons of Super-Flash gasoline were used, is the result of the speed test made today by the Whippet car, latest small machine to be introduced by the manufacturers of the Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles.

The record run was made with Charles Moore, mechanic at the E. L. Bradfield & Son garage, local Whippet dealers, at the wheel. The roads and streets between the two cities were wet, offering an additional handicap in the test.

The car left Mansfield at 10:15 a. m. and arrived in East Liverpool at 12:40 p. m., or an average of a little better than 50 miles an hour. The machine made the entire trip without a change in gear or a stop.

Five gallons of Super-Flash gas, furnished by the Oil Valley Oil company were used, or better than 24 miles to the gallon. Five quarts of Super-Flash motor oil, placed in the crank case of the car when it left East Liverpool for Mansfield yesterday, was drained from the machine upon its return here today, no oil having been used in the round trip which totalled 242 miles.

A parade through the downtown section of the city was held early this afternoon, at the end of the test. Willys-Knight, Overland and Whippet cars were in the procession.
